STEEL STRUCTURE RISES. Work begins last week on a new steel processing plant which will be operated by the Feralloy Corp., a steel processing firm. The Granite City Council has approved the sale of $800,000 in industrial revenue bonds to help finance the construction of the new plant at 25th Street and Nantuxi Drive. At right is a large crane used to lift the large steel girders into place.

Treatment cost too high for Madison and Venice

Madison and Venice city officials will "fight to the last ditch" any attempt by the Metro-East Sanitary District to develop a secondary sewage treatment program that would cost sewer users a fee of $7.80 per month.

Determination to oppose the district's proposal to route sanitary sewage from its Lansdowne treatment plant at National City to the Granite City treatment facility for secondary treatment was announced by Mayor Mike Sasyk of Madison and Mayor William "Mike" Ebersoldt of Venice following a meeting with district officials regarding the treatment proposal a week ago.

Both Sasyk and Ebersoldt said they have "no intentions" to go along with any phase of the secondary sewage treatment plan "until we can see some real figures that are reasonable. So far, all we have been given are what district officials describe as estimates."

Sasyk told the Press-Record that a figure of $7.80 per month for sewer use "is unreal." Venice and Madison residents now are served by sanitary sewer lines connected to the Lansdowne treatment plant, which provides primary treatment only. The Lansdowne plant also serves residents in part of East St. Louis, Stites and Canteen Townships in St. Clair County.

Under the present system, sewer users pay a current fee of $4.45 per quarter. On the basis of the projected fee of $7.80 per month, that fee would be increased to $23.40 per quarter.

The sanitary district, now under mandate by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency to provide secondary treatment of sewage going into the Lansdowne plant, has proposed converting the Lansdowne plant into a pumping station, building a major trunk line to the Granite City treatment facility and paying Granite City for both primary and secondary treatment.

The $7.80 per month fee was projected by Wendell Wheldon, executive director of the district, would include a payment of $3.76 per month to Granite City for service to the average household.

The remainder of the monthly fee would finance trunk line construction, conversion of the Lansdowne plant, clerical and billing operations, a sewer repair survey and debt service.

Sasyk and Ebersoldt, who attended last week's meeting in which Wheldon outlined the fee estimate and construction cost estimates of more than $7 million, said "there is no way we will go along with a plan like that."

Both mayors noted that residents of Madison and Venice cannot afford such a fee and that it would work a particularly difficult hardship on the elderly who have fixed incomes.

"We haven't seen anything but estimates," Sasyk said, noting that "the sanitary district does not even have a finalized agreement with Granite City to use the secondary treatment plant."

It is my thought that they should get everything together first, and then give us a proposal," he said.

Ebersoldt said the estimated $7.80 monthly treatment fee is out of the question. "I wouldn't think of putting such a burden on our citizens."

Ebersoldt, a former member and board president of the former East Side Levee and Sanitary District, said, "We (the former levee district board) had this lined up at one time, but never at a cost as high as this."

He noted also that the sanitary district does not have an agreement with Granite City for use of the treatment facilities here, and that until that is done there can be no way that reasonable cost estimates can be made.

Layoffs place sanitary district on a 'standby'

By HARRY BARNES

Press-Record Staff Writer

The Metro-East Sanitary District—voted in a late of term meeting Tuesday to reduce the district's operations to a standby basis.

The district board members, by a 4 to 1 vote, laid off 13 staff employees, reducing the district's work force to 26 persons, effective on Friday.

In addition, the board ruled that those retained in their jobs will be required to work without pay until funds become available and that the members of the board also will continue to serve without pay during the present financial crisis.

Wendell Wheldon, executive director of the district who told the board he did not agree with the action, said he was considering an appeal of a circuit court ruling involving the fifth membership on the board.

Wheldon told the board that he believed there were several things that could be done.

"One of them," he said, is to approve the documents necessary to the sale of an anticipation warrant. This hasn't been done but would be necessary to borrow money."

Robinson replied that John Sprague of Belleville, district attorney, was supposed to be that waiting "to see if a miracle happens."

They said their reasons to lay off more workers by Friday result from the district's downer financial position and that there are no funds available to meet next week's payroll of approximately $25,000.

Other Brummitt of Cahokia and Robert Eastern of East St. Louis opposed any immediate action toward laying off more workers and urged the other board members to "wait at least another week" to see if something could be worked out.

"We won't meet the payroll if we lay off," Brummitt told Brummitt.

Brummitt said he could see no reason to continue spending money on salaries "while we are here waiting to see if a miracle happens. We've known what this situation is for the past ten weeks and all we've done is sit around and talk about it."

Brummitt told the board that "We've operated before in bad financial straits. I think we could go on a while longer."

Wheldon said the board should have believed there were several things that could be done.

"One of them," he said, is to approve the documents necessary to the sale of an anticipation warrant. This hasn't been done but would be necessary to borrow money."

Robinson replied that John Sprague of Belleville, district attorney, was supposed to be working on the problem of anticipating against next year's taxes.

"Has he done anything about it?" Robinson asked Wheldon. Wheldon made no reply.

"He was told to do that," Robinson said.

Wheldon said the district also could order an audit of the bond accounts to determine if any general funds had become intermingled with bond funds.

"We have three quarters of a million in bond accounts and it is almost certain that part of that includes general funds which would be decided by an audit," Wheldon said.

In addition, he said, the district could apply for a court order to borrow from the bond accounts once an audit is made.

Robinson emphasized that "This (layoff) is not a shut-down. We are not closing down the district. We are cutting back until we get funds enough to meet the payroll."

GratHouse added that district operations costs at least $75,000 a month, "and we can't go on operating at that level without any money."

Wheldon referred to the problem of fighting high water in a few weeks.

"Where are we going to get the money?" Robinson asked.

"We've got problems right now where the roads are so muddy we can't even get to the pumps," Wheldon said, adding that "I can't see being without

Campus rape

A 20-year-old girl was assaulted and raped in the front parking area at Granite City High School South about 7 p.m. Monday.

The young woman, who is attending college credit classes at South High, called her parents immediately after the attack and was taken to St. Elizabeth Hospital for an examination and treatment of a 1½-inch laceration to the back of her head.

Police were notified.

The attack occurred when the young woman was walking from the parking area in front of Memorial Gymnasium toward the High School and an assailant, whom she could not identify, struck her on the head with a hard object and grabbed her by the throat, dragging her toward the rear of the parking lot.

The man seized the young woman, "Shut up. Come with me. Someone don't like you." The girl repeatedly asked, "Where are we going?" but the man kept dragging her to the rear of the front lot where a blue-green vehicle was parked. The attacker, who held a steel bar in his hand, was described as five feet, nine or five feet, ten inches tall, husky build with dark brown "fuzzy" hair, shoulder length.

The man forced the girl into the back seat of the vehicle. She had buckled seats at the front, pushed her down, partially disrobed the girl to force and raped her.

After the attack, the man handed the girl her clothing, told her to get out of the car and "don't do anything stupid."

She ran to the school, pulling on her clothing, and saw her attacker slung from the blue-green car, in which the rape took place, walk across the lot and get into another vehicle, parked at the south end.

Another person was in the second car, the young woman told police.

An investigation into the attack is continuing.

Loren Worthen, owner of the Illinois Motel, and a group of investors, purchased the half-block of buildings in the 1300 block of 19th Street from the alley to the corner at Edison Ave.

The purchase was finalized in Edwardsville with the St. Louis Amusement Co. of St. Louis, which is affiliated with Arthur Enterprises of St. Louis, owners of the theater for years. The purchase amount was not disclosed.

According to a spokesman, the group, as soon as good weather comes, will put a new roof on the entire complex of buildings and remodel the stores. The spokesman said this will make them "ideal rentable properties."

There are two small stores between the theater proper and the alley dividing the block, and the large building next to Edison Avenue which formerly was occupied by P. N. Hirsch Co.

Several uses for the theater are being considered by the group, including the showing of movies, possible stage presentations, and as a meeting place.

The theater building is in an ideal location for a multitude of uses, the spokesman said.

Seniority for GC fire promotions?

An ordinance amendment that would make it mandatory for the chief of the Granite City fire department to fill higher-rank positions in the event of temporary vacancies was placed on first reading by the City Council Tuesday night after Fire Chief Don Parente opposed the bill and asked council members to reject it.

If approved, the bill would require Parente to move up the fireman with the greatest seniority from the next lowest rank to fill any vacancy created in the ranks of the fire chief.

assistant chief, shift commander, captain or engineer.

Although several aldermen noted that the city already provides by ordinance that firemen serving temporarily in a higher rank shall receive the salary of that rank, City Attorney Lance Calles explained that the ordinance amendment proposed Tuesday night made it mandatory that the vacancies be filled, rather than leaving it up to the fire chief as to whether the position should be filled.

Ed McGovern, president of the Firefighters Union, told the council that the amendment was intended to clarify the ordinance to make it certain that all vacant posts in the higher ranks be filled by the men with the highest seniority.

"We are not trying to tell Don (Parente) how to run the department. We want to be union and operate on a seniority basis," McGovern said.

Parente, however, told the aldermen that "I don't think it will work. A move-up in the higher ranks could short us on men available. It could also be costly."

In a written communication to council members, Parente said, "The ordinance states in section 1 that I have to fill the offices at all times. This forces me to run short on the trucks whenever a shift commander, assistant chief or chief is off for any reason. The only other solution is to call out men and pay them overtime."

"I don't think it is necessary to fill the assistant chief's or the chief's job when they are off because these jobs are all administrative and I feel it is important to have men on the trucks rather than in the office from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. When do I do with them after 5 p.m. if they are on a 24-hour shift?"

Parente noted that the ordinance amendment also stated that "I take the senior department men to fill the positions. This could force if men to work 70 hours in a row if the man fills a certain rank and the rank is vacant on 24-hour consecutive days."

Parente told the council that "this ordinance, if passed, is (Continued on Page 3)

The pugilist had difficulty walking on the hardwood surface, but earned great respect around, much to the delight of youthful fans. An estimated crowd of 2,500 witnessed the contest.

Irwin funeral home to hold open house Sunday

The Randall A. Irwin Funeral Chapel, 2801 Madison Ave., will hold an open house Sunday from noon through 6 p.m.

The new funeral chapel is located in the building of the former offices of the Special Education District. The building was built in 1926 for the E. H. Schildman Funeral Home. In 1950 it became the first John Sedlack Funeral Home which is now located in Madison.

Irwin, the former manager of Mercer Mortuary, severed his relationship with that funeral home in mid-November 1977. Irwin is a lifelong resident of Granite City and a graduate from the public schools here and also attended Southern Illinois University at Carbondale and graduated from the Indiana College of Mortuary Science, Indianapolis, Ind.

He said he will offer funerals in appropriate surroundings at a reasonable cost.

The exterior of the building has been painted white with black trim and ground lights in addition to coachlights to accent the exterior walls.

He has been a Madison County deputy coroner since 1975 and is secretary-treasurer of the Madison County Funeral Directors' Association.

Voumard would use special deputy staff

Five "continuing issues" in Madison County sheriff's Democratic primary were discussed this week by one of the candidates, Edward D. Voumard. He commented:

"An opinion by the attorney general's office, some months past, declared special deputy commissions illegal. The present, sheriff abolished this program.

"To my knowledge, this opinion has not received consideration by the judiciary, an important constitutional branch of our representative government.

"If elected sheriff, I would re-establish special deputy commissions to deserving, well-qualified individuals, based on need, with training, under a plan of careful scrutiny and continuous control.

"I would, also, have the option to institute a friendly suit on this issue to obtain a decision by the court if it is deemed necessary.

"Again, this would be initiated to provide greater protection to the citizen and to raise the level of risk to the criminal.

"Secondly, I am not for the confiscation of guns from the law-abiding citizen. I would never deny the citizen adequate self-protection of life, limb and safety under the established laws.

"Third, the sheriff's department has a woman deputy who, at this time, is not on patrol. I would welcome another well-qualified woman who wishes to perform such patrol duties.

"Fourth, I would plan in the future to have a lawyer on the sheriff's staff. This would be done for the purpose of safeguarding the rights of law-abiding citizens.

"This would help the sheriff in surmounting legal problems, promote progress through aggressive enforcement measures, and help the state's attorney with his cumbersome and overly-burdened duties.

"And, as sheriff, I would be bound by the law and conform to it. However, as sheriff, speaking in the councils of government, I would express myself as being against unequal rights for the criminal.

"I would speak for greater rights for the law-abiding citizen, and for increasing the level of risk to the criminal."

Suit against motel, owner

Paul Podraza, 29, Mascoutah, has filed a six-count suit in Madison County Circuit Court against Loren Worthen, 44, manager of the Illini Motel, and against Granite City Illini Motel, Inc., 1100 N. Ringhaus Ave.

Podraza alleges that on July 4, 1977, when he was a patron of the motel, he and Worthen disagreed over a bill and Worthen hit Podraza on the head with a pistol, which then discharged and the bullet entered Podraza's right arm.

The suit seeks $100,000 in one count each against the motel and Worthen, and $100,000 actual damages and $100,000 punitive damages in each of four counts, two against the motel and two against Worthen.

Hits power pole at 10th-Madison

Gerald W. Burnett of Beardstown, Ill., sustained an injury at 10 p.m. Tuesday when the auto he was driving struck and broke a street sign and damaged a metal power pole on Madison Avenue at 10th Street. He was charged with injury to city property.

Burnett was turning west from Madison onto 10th at the time of the mishap.

A southbound vehicle, operated by Donna Kooch, 1617 Reynolds St., Madison, ran over the debris left from the accident, police said.

89-day Olin strike ends

The 89-day-old strike at Olin Corporation's East Alton Olin Works ended Monday night when members of International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers Local 680 ratified a new three-year labor contract with the company.

Terms of the agreement basically are the same as those of contracts accepted by other Olin Works bargaining groups. The new contract calls for an immediate nine percent wage increase.

There will be three percent wage increases Dec. 1, 1978, and Dec. 1, 1979, along with resumption of a cost-of-living allowance plan which has been in effect at the Olin Works for the last two years.

Olin Works hourly paid employees returned to work beginning with the 8 a.m. shift Tuesday. The company expects operations to return to normal almost immediately.

The company operated the plant continuously, except for a Christmas-New Year's shutdown, since the strike began Dec. 1. Supervisory personnel filled production jobs through December and early January. Since mid-January, the company had been employing temporary factory workers, and an increasing number of regular hourly paid employees returned to work. Olin officials claimed.

The temporary workers were unemployed by the company. About 700 were on the Olin Works payroll when the strike ended.

SUIT AGAINST RAILROAD

Lloyd Mathis has filed a $15,000 suit in Madison County Circuit Court against the Terminal Railroad Association of St. Louis as the result of a May 28, 1976, accident. He alleges he was a switchman in the Madison yards and slipped from an engine into a hole filled with water, falling and injuring himself. Negligence in maintaining the work area and failure to warn employees of the danger of the hole are charged.

forcing me to fill jobs that of a temporary nature is not necessary for the health and safety of the citizens of Granite City.

Alderman Gerald Parmley

asked if the proposed change had been cleared with the council's negotiating committee.

Alderman Fred Schuman Jr., a member of the committee, said that the matter of seniority was discussed by the firemen, but that "it did not appear to be a major issue and we agreed that seniority should be the basis of advancing to another rank."

As discussion continued and it became apparent that the council was split on the issue, Alderman Charles Douglas moved for deferral of the ordinance until the next meeting. The motion was defeated, however, by a vote of 8 to 7, with one abstention.

Alderman Ray Poulos, chairman of the ordinance committee, moved to place the bill on first reading, which means the ordinance may be presented for second reading at the next council meeting March 7.

Layoffs

and supportive staff at this time.

Brummitt suggested that the district continue at its present level. "We should pull every string we can, and then if we can't do anything, I'll back your move (layoffs) to the fullest extent. We've been out of money ever since I've been here."

Robinson, however, said he backed the staff cuts should be made immediately and become effective Friday.

"I would not go for another moment's delay," Greenhouse said. "We've been acting like a bunch of kids. We've played this to a fare-thee-well. We're not serving the public just sitting here talking about it. Those layoffs should be ordered Friday."

Greenhouse made the motion for immediate cuts. Leonard Hylla of Madison gave the motion a second and John Erhardt of Washington Park, a St. Clair County trustee, and Robinson, voted in favor.

Negative votes were cast by Brummitt and Eastern.

As a result, the trustees decided to lay off 10 persons as of tomorrow, most of them clerical workers, and in subsequent months provided that employees still on the force be required to work without pay, and that the commissioners' salaries receive no per diem fees until more funds become available.

The district reported about half its work force a month ago, and Robinson warned at that time that more layoffs were possible unless the financial picture improved.

Customarily at this time of the year, the sanitary district and its predecessor, the former East Side Levee and Sanitary District, sold anticipation warrants to finance operations until summer tax collections begin.

The banks have declined to loan money to the warrants this year because of the court litigation to determine whether Eastern or Greenhouse should be seated as the fifth member of the district board of trustees.

Eastern's term expired in November, at a time when the shift in property valuations gave Madison County the right under the law to appoint the fifth board member. Eastern was reappointed by the St. Clair County Board, however, and he filed injunction proceedings in circuit court to retain his seat. Madison County appointed Greenhouse as the county's third board member. The circuit court held, however, that the law determining the board membership on the basis of county wealth was unconstitutional and enjoined the board from removing Eastern. Madison County officials are in the process of appealing the circuit court ruling.

The outcome of Tuesday's meeting leaves the district with 24 maintenance and operating employees who are workers hired under union contracts to fulfill stipulations.

Also continuing on their jobs are chief district clerk, Mrs. Helen Christich of Granite City, and Whelan.

The district's full work force usually consists of about 100 employees, including clerical workers.

The vehicle did not catch, police said.

Trojans

decided to go for the last shot of the period.

A Trojan pass was intercepted by Reams with five seconds left. He drove the length of the floor and scored to narrow the Vandals' deficit at the end of the third period to 30-28.

Reams started the final quarter just as he had finished the third. He hit a soft touch jumper from ten feet out as the period began to make it 30-31.

A charging foul on Ken Stanley at the 7:37 mark turned the ball back over to Vandals. Kuter was then fouled by James Hard in the act of shooting. He sank both charity tosses to narrow the Trojans' lead to seven. It was the closest Vandals had been since the opening moments.

It was also as close as they were going to get.

Ken Stanley came down the floor and quickly put Madison back up by 13 when he popped in a 15-footer. Then Clayton Harris hit one from 15 feet to push the margin up to 34-43 at the 6:02 mark. Harris was fouled in the process, but couldn't convert the free throw.

But his teammate, third, drew in from somewhere and grabbed the rebound. He laid the ball off to Harris, who popped in a 20-footer and pushed the Trojans' lead to 34-43.

A Vandals' attempt to get within eight points once more down the stretch, but couldn't muster enough firepower to get over the hump.

"I think they've (Vandals) got a better team than many people give them credit for," said Graham. "It looked early like we might just have them out, but there's something about our team. We just like to make it exciting."

"I thought Clayton Harris did a heck of a job for us coming off the bench," added Graham.

He picked up when we were getting a little fat. There is the last part of the third quarter. When asked what the problem might have been as to the Trojans' over-prudent slump, Graham said, "It seems as if we gave a little too over-enthusiasm when we got a big lead. They probably just got tired and thought they might have had it made."

Reams, Harris, Eric Mackay and Clayton Jackson came off the bench to offer their support.

"I'll play anybody 15-on-15, if they ever started a game like that," said Graham. "It's his team's depth. I feel we're as good as anybody in Illinois made for man all the way down the bench."

Regarding tomorrow night's game against Lebanon, Graham said, "Our guys are proud. They feel they can go out there and get the job done and are ready to do it."

"We're not looking ahead to anything but the Lebanon game. I'll probably have someone at Bridgport to look at the Lawrenceville 52."

Anthony, game, but I'm just thinking about this thing one game at a time.

Nameoki board pays police car bills—says no more

The Nameoki Town Board of Trustees voted Monday night to pay all outstanding bills for the impounded State Park Special Police and issued a firm warning that there would be no more support from the township unless the department could reorganize and operate four to six months to show it is viable.

The board agreed to pay $1,600 in outstanding bills, including a bill to an auto body repair shop which threatened to obtain a lien against the department's police car if the bill was not paid.

Nameoki Supervisor Harold Davis explained that insurance paid $1,800 for the repairs to the car when it was damaged in an accident, but the insurance check was sent to the county which cashed it and kept about half of the money to reimburse Madison County for insurance the county purchased for the police car.

The other half was sent to the body repair shop, Davis said. The township had the police car towed from State Park Place to the township garage after political differences brought the police unit to a halt.

Bill Hayes of State Park Place, who is attempting to reorganize the volunteer police, contended at the meeting Monday night that the township had no right to take the car, which belongs to the police unit, even though it was purchased through a grant from the township.

Davis explained that a former policeman had requested that the car be taken by the township, since it was blocking a needed entrance to the Stateway Ambulance service building and because they feared vandals would damage the car.

Trustee Lee Adams commented, "It is legally their car. If they want it, they can come and get it tomorrow morning."

Davis noted insurance, license plates and other expenses must be incurred before the car can legally be driven.

Adams also said the State Park residents had months to reorganize the department after the car was taken and nothing was done. "I do not feel anything is going to be done."

Hayes responded, "That is your opinion and not the opinion of some people who want to see the car on the streets."

Davis noted that the last time a meeting was called in State Park Place on reorganizing the police department, only 12 to 15 people showed up and "we have not heard anything from them since."

Hayes said there is a group of men who would like to volunteer to patrol the streets, but are waiting to reorganize until after the primary election March 21 to see who the sheriff's candidates will be and see if they feel the new sheriff will support them.

"We will get some new men and get back in operation, if the sheriff's department will cooperate," Hayes said.

Adams said he thought the present sheriff, John Maestas, had been very cooperative with the volunteer police units in the county and has indicated he still is behind them.

Hayes answered, "You try talking to him. He will turn his nose up. He would rather see if (the State Park car) off the road and see some of the others off too."

Davis said the volunteer policemen were held early in 1977 that money remained in the grant the township gave the department and that the township had agreed to pay outstanding bills if the police would bring them into the board for consideration.

Now, finally, they have brought them in and these are not the bills, they are just statements.

Adams said he would like to see the township pay all the bills except the body shop bill, since insurance should have paid that.

Joseph Boyer, a former police chief of the department, said he feels everyone who incurred debts for the department should receive something, even if the township had to pro-rate the amount of money available among the creditors.

Trustee Norman Hessler commented, "The township has an obligation to pay these bills," and suggested they be paid immediately, since Monday night's meeting was the final meeting of the fiscal year which ended Tuesday night.

Davis noted $1,088 was available in the State Park Police grant account, which was not enough to pay the $1,600 in outstanding bills. He suggested $520 be transferred from the town fund appropriation for health programs to provide $1,623 to pay the bills.

A resolution to transfer the funds was approved unanimously.

Adams warned, "Before I go with more revenue sharing (for the department's expenses), you guys will have to operate four to six months to show good intent before any more revenue sharing money is going into that car."

Under its original proposal, the department would operate the township-purchased squad car with gasoline and other expenses paid by grants from residents and businesses and from fund-raising events for the police only. The car, radio, uniforms and other equipment to get the department started was to have been purchased with the township grant funds.

Action Monday night by the board authorized paying for the car, repairs, radio, gasoline and other expenses incurred when the department was operating.

HOSPITAL TOUR is taken Tuesday morning by students of the Venice-Lincoln Technical Center enrolled in a new course entitled "Life Skills for Adults." The class studies topics of interest to the consumer, home and car care and purchasing, family health practices and other skills needed in everyday living. Part of the class is seen visiting a Hubbard tank which was developed for use in the therapy of polio victims. A hoist is used to lower the patient into the steel tank. Other areas of the hospital visited by the class included the emergency room, x-ray and radiation department, laboratories and housekeeping departments. Conducting the tour was Mrs. Becky State of the public relations department. Other tours taken by the class include Granite City Steel, Sweeney Construction Co., St. Louis Federal Reserve Bank, Labey's Funeral Home and the St. Louis and East St. Louis Post Offices. Mrs. Sandra Ransford, one of the instructors of the class, accompanied the class on the hospital tour.

Tax aid may expand jobs—House speaker

Speaker of the House William Reichenbach addressed the Illinois Middle-East Legislative Council at the Collinsville Holiday Inn at noon Monday.

He said, "I see a change in Illinois. The legislature is trying to establish itself in a more equal role" with the governor in determining the course of government.

He predicted there might be legislation to provide sales tax relief for new companies on their purchases of machinery, to make more jobs.

"I may turn out like the personal property tax on corporations," he said.

All Chambers thought when the 1970 Illinois Constitution was adopted that elimination of personal property tax was a good idea. The sentiment now in the business community is that something worse than property tax will replace it.

"There is a move on to leave it in by Constitutional amendment. That really is the sentiment of the Illinois Manufacturers' Association. I met with them last week."

He gave businessmen little hope on the workmen's compensation insurance law that may have been promised because of costly 1973 changes.

"There is no way in the world the level of premiums will go back to what they were before 1973," he said. "Freemasons are a function of the level of wages and medical-hospital costs."

He took pride in the workman's compensation changes made in the 1977 session, resulting in what he said would be premium cuts of perhaps 2½ percent. Few other cuts have gone down, he pointed out.

He said there had been a complete breakdown beginning about 1974 in the "agreed bill" process, by which labor and industry reach acceptable compromises. The 1975 law that turned out so bad, he said, was the result of a single hearing, lasting an hour and a half.

He said, "I have no idea what will happen in the unemployment insurance area. I know this is a sensitive issue in this part of the state because of the long Olin strike."

"I doubt there will be any review of it this spring. I think it ought to be subject of an ongoing interim study commission."

last week's meeting, Wheldon said free payments for sewer use, exclusive of construction costs, were estimated on the basis of Granite City's present sewer fee schedule.

Granite City now pay $2 monthly, or $6 per quarter, for sewer treatment.

Wheldon said that during the meeting, Wheldon gave the representatives of cities and villages a suggested ordinance form, passage of which would commit the municipality to participation in the district's treatment program.

"We have no idea of acting on this or any other ordinance or resolution that would commit us to this program," the mayor said.

compensation law that allows benefits to workers who quit or are fired for cause is opposed by Illinois industry, he noted.

Reichenbach said that without any prodding from outside, the House set up a Products Liability Study Commission.

"I don't know how there can be ongoing liability 40, 50, 60 years after a product is made," he said.

Close Illinois vote likely on mine pact

By SUSAN SMITH
Special Staff Writer

If past records around the state are any indication, the proposed United Mine Workers' Coal Operators Association pact with a tough revalidation battle in Illinois.

The proposed agreement, reached Friday under a three-day federal intervention in the strike, has been described as nearly identical to the 1974 agreement with the IUCOA.

That pact was defeated at the polls by Illinois' rank and file and narrowly passed nationwide with 52 percent of the miners' vote.

In voting down the 1974 pact with its 34 percent increase in wages and fringe benefits and full-day medical plan, state miners turned down a much better economic package than they will be confronted with at the polls this weekend.

The proposed contract offers the miners about a 37 percent increase in wages and fringe benefits and a deductible medical plan that can cost each miner as much as $10 a year.

Many UMW sources are speculating that miners who voted "no" in 1974 will do so again this year and that their ranks will be swayed by others unhappy with the contract or the leadership.

Some of the sources admit, though, that the record-breaking length of the 12-week strike may cause miners to desperate financial shape to vote for the contract. The 1974 dispute lasted five weeks.

"If this were the first week, I'm sure no one would vote for it," said Dennis Skelton, general director of Local 101 at the Mine Workers' No. 1 mine at Carlinville.

But year family comes first. Some may say they're going to vote no and then vote yes.

There are a large number of young miners whose votes cannot be predicted because they never have voted on a contract.

With only one to three years of employment in the mines, they are the least likely to have enough money to endure the lengthy strike.

In Illinois, the young miners will be a big factor in the revalidation vote. They constitute 40 percent of the state's 14,000 miners.

Local presidents throughout the state met with the UMW leadership Wednesday to be briefed on the particulars of the contract.

The local presidents will hold meetings with members during the latter part of the week and the revalidation vote will take place over the weekend.

Miners opposed to the contract, however, are not as vocal as those favoring it, said Monday they opposed it because it would curtail free economic gains and some losses for them.

"Compared to what they set out to do, there's not much that can be said for it (the contract)," said Tom Bethell, former UMW research director for the union.

Bethell, UMW research director from 1973 to 1977, is now director of a Washington firm specializing in coal and energy issues.

He said the contract retains the financially ailing UMW health and retirement fund, but does nothing to improve the grievance procedure and thereby averts the wildcat strikes that were disrupting the fund.

"Nothing was done to improve the grievance mechanism," he said.

The labor problems that were plaguing the union are not going to go away.

Wildcatting miners claimed that grievance procedure was inadequate and often led to the wildcat strikes.

The coal operators dropped demands for 100,000 against wildcatting miners, but Bethell said the new contract gives the operators authority to take much stronger disciplinary measures against the instigators of a strike.

"They can discharge anyone who has picketed or otherwise been actively involved," he said.

Some miners are especially displeased with the medical benefits plan in the contract.

The agreement proposes that coal companies contract with private insurance carriers for the active miners' benefits with a maximum deduction of $200 for a miner per year. Under the 1974 contract, miners paid nothing for medical benefits.

In the new contract, miners would pay $7.50 for each visit to the doctor up to $100 per year.

On each prescription bill up to $10 a year.

7.5 percent of all hospital costs up to $10 a year.

Even the wage hike, which until now has not been a point of controversy, has come under fire because one-fourth of the miners would receive a $1 an hour wage increase immediately and a 40-cent hike the second and third years of the contract, for a $1.80 total.

They made $7.80 under the old contract.

The second and third years of the contract, they could also receive a cost-of-living increase up to 30 cents a year that would be paid to them in the Consumer Price Index.

One Illinois miners pointed out the rejection of the pact reached between the UMW and the Pittsburgh and Midway Coal Co. over the past weekend as an indication that the UMW-ILCOA settlement.

However, both Bethell and John Samuels, research director for Illinois District 12, warned against considering the P and M contract a bad sign.

Samuels also discouraged suggestions that the pact would be filled in by the IUCOA contract, and that miners respected it because they were confused as to what level of benefits they would receive.

Samuels also discouraged suggestions that the pact would go down with the sinking popularity of Miller.

Nationwide, miners are calling for Miller's resignation.

Some southern Illinois miners claim they have collected several thousand signatures on anti-Miller petitions.

"There are probably groups who would vote against any contract that Miller has anything to do with," Samuels admitted, "but there are some who will vote against any contract."

Venice firemen prevent explosion

Venice firemen were in the Terminal Railroad Association yards from 11:07 a.m. Wednesday until 5:35 a.m. today in efforts to keep a tank car that had turned over from igniting or exploding.

The railroad car reportedly was filled with about 2,000 gallons of a flammable liquid, overturned in the Venice yard and began leaking.

Railroad authorities refused to give any details as to the cause of the car overturning. Firemen borrowed a foam machine from Long Lake Fire Department.

The foam machine uses water and a protein-based chemical and blows it through a tube at a "high expansion rate." The machine was not the right type and the acetone was consumed the foam as quickly as it was applied.

The tank car was set upright and the acetone was pumped into another tank car.

According to Firemen, the solvent smells like fingernail polish remover and evaporates at about 26 degrees. The cold temperatures helped contain it in liquid form.

The substance is a toxic and "kill flash at a spark," a fireman said.

A light wind with the cold combined to keep the danger of an explosion low.

Venice firemen also borrowed foam from Madison and Granite City fire departments.

New varieties of crabapple trees

By WAYNE B. SHEPHERD
Area Horticulture Adviser

Flowering crabapples are in a state of change. Landscape gardeners are planting varieties of crabapples that do not drop their fruit and have disease-resistant foliage.

Several of the new varieties produce a dense top due to numerous small limbs rather than the traditional large limbs that characterize apple trees.

Varities like Sargent Crabapple, Red Jade and Jacki are examples of trees that hold their fruit into mid-winter, yet have special qualities of size and disease resistance.

White Angel is a dense, rounded tree that grows to 12 to 15 feet tall. The pink buds develop into white flowers. Each year White Angel crabapple develops a heavy crop of glossy red apples 3/4-inch in size that last well into winter. White Angel will develop as a multi-stemmed, low branched tree. Snowdrift is another white flowered crabapple of excellent quality. It has the same dense, rounded form as White Angel, but the crabapples are orange-red in color and much smaller.

It develops into a tree 20-25 feet tall. It is a fast growing crabapple that is easy to transplant.

Zumi Calocarpa is often called "Redbud Crabapple" because of the deep red buds that open into fragrant white flowers. Zumi crabapple develops into a dense pyramid of 20 feet tall. The crabapples are red and 1/2" in diameter.

Radiant crabapple is called "Red Radiant" because of the deep red buds and deep pink flowers.

Radiant has an upright compact growth of 20-30 feet. Crabapples are bright red, 1/2" in size and last well into winter. The young leaves are purplish changing to green.

Radiant crabapple is an excellent patio tree, or as a specimen.

Arrest 8th man in rape case

Zachery Norman, 18, St. Louis, was brought to the Madison County Jail Monday night from Tempe, Ariz., near Phoenix, on a warrant alleging two counts of rape.

Norman is the eighth person taken into custody in connection with the rape of two St. Louis young women on Chouteau Island Aug. 7, 1976. The young women allegedly were forced into a car in St. Louis and were given to the island where nine men assaulted them.

Norman remains at large and has been granted immunity to return for his testimony. The other five have been prosecuted and sentenced.

Madison County officials received information Norman was at a relative's home in Tempe and alerted authorities there who arrested him Feb. 15. He was extradited Feb. 17 and was subsequently brought to Madison County.

His bond has been set at $50,000.

Road, bridge, dam emphasis in budget

Illinois will continue to have one of the largest highway programs in the nation under Governor James R. Thompson's proposed 1978-79 budget for the Department of Transportation.

The $2.2 billion budget to maintain, improve and expand Illinois' transportation system represents a $121 million increase over last year's (1977-78) level and includes almost $1.4 billion for the road program.

Of the total request, $842.7

million is allocated specifically for new highway projects. The details were announced Wednesday afternoon.

"This dollar amount will sustain a strong highway construction, rehabilitation and improvement program and will continue Illinois' record of leading the nation in road improvements," Thompson said.

He said specific highway improvements by county for FY '79 will be released with the department's regular annual road program in April.

Major features of the transportation program for FY '79 include:

1. Reconstruction, widening and resurfacing of nearly 300 miles of rural and urban roads on both the state system and local federal-aid roads.
2. Rehabilitation or replacement of 285 bridges that cannot carry legal load limits or are too narrow, including 100 bridges on local township roads.
3. Construction on a major segment of Interstate 270 — a project to provide a major highway in the Collinsville-East St. Louis area.

This project, which is expected to take several years, will aid economic development in Southwestern Illinois and will provide an estimated 4,000 project-related jobs, it is asserted.

4. Correction of 70 high accident locations in both rural and urban areas and removal of roadside obstacles.

5. Providing $200 million for support and improvement of public transportation and rail service, including $22.3 million to continue a special program of reduced fares for the elderly and students.
6. Utilizing nearly $1 million in federal funds for purchase of specially-equipped vehicles for transportation of the elderly and the handicapped.
7. Initiation of a new dam safety program aimed at preventing disasters resulting from structural failures in Illinois dams.
8. Continuing the water resources program of flood control, water supply, protection of Lake Michigan's coastline and assisting communities with development of commercial port facilities.

A Prevailing Grants totaling $9 million to match $42.4 million in federal money for safety and capacity projects at the state's public airports.

PETER L. SIMPSON

Educator recognized for his poetry skills

Peter L. Simpson, assistant to President Kenneth Shaw of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, has been selected to appear in International Who's Who in Poetry.

Simpson's poetry has appeared in many literary publications, including the two-volume SELE publications, The Mid-Creek Valley Intelligencer, The Missouri Press, and Crazy Horse.

He has authored a book of poems entitled "Keeping Open."

"A good poet holds the language very dear," says Simpson. "What you're doing is taking something that belongs to everybody and producing a private expression."

"Poetry is the most personal form of expression there is. It comes from the core of your life. You can have it and give it away, too."

Simpson first became involved in poetry when he was a sophomore at the University of Notre Dame.

"You have to be able to appreciate good poetry to be a good poet," said Simpson. "The talent itself is not what makes the poetry. It's just the spark."

"You have to read and write a lot, but not necessarily about poetry."

Simpson's talents are not confined to poetry. His reviews, essays and stories have been published in newspapers, magazines and professional journals. And readings of his poetry have been given to various literary audiences.

During the past 10 years, Simpson has conducted workshops at all levels of education, including the lower grades, junior high and high school.

Simpson has also taught in various capacities, as a member of the faculty at Lindenwood College and at SIUE.

He was recently one of four poets asked to read at the annual meeting of the Missouri Philological Association at the University of Missouri, Rolla.

Simpson has served as a volunteer and professional consultant to political figures in both Illinois and Missouri. He recently was asked to participate in the Illinois Arts Council writers-in-residence program during the 1977-78 year.

Of his induction into the International Who's Who in Poetry, Simpson said, "One more thing about poetry is that it enriches humanity. There is a satisfaction knowing that someone else's life has been enriched by your poems."

Venice ok's ambulance agreement

Due to the limited private ambulance service available, the Venice City Council Tuesday night signed a service agreement with the Granite City Ambulance Service.

Citizens may call any ambulance service they wish, it was noted during the meeting.

The city will use the Granite City Ambulance Service. Cost of the service is $70 per call plus $1 per mile traveled with a patient.

"I feel this new agreement will offer our citizens fine ambulance service," which almost everyone needs at least once or twice in their lives," Mayor William "Mike" Knoch said.

Thomas Fields, manager of the McKinley Trail Bridge, reported that everything "out the weather" is ready for the installation of automatic toll booths.

Bridge traffic continues to increase, according to Fields.

The January 1978 McKinley Trail Bridge vehicle report showed that 26,867 vehicles crossed the bridge during the month for a daily January average of 840.

Fields told the council that this is an increase of 1,994 vehicles per day over January 1977.

EXPLORER PRESIDENTS. Michelle Hayes, 18, Brighton, Ill., newly-elected Area Three Explorer Chairman and Kevin Sabo, president of Granite City Police Explorer Post 10-33 and president of the Cahokia Mound Council Explorer Presidents Association (EPA), exchange views on Exploring at an Area Three meeting held in Columbia, Mo., attended by 200 representatives of Explorer Posts from three states.

Chouteau studies grants to fire department units

The Chouteau Town Board of Trustees Monday night was requested to consider revenue sharing grants to the Mitchell and Hartford fire departments if a $4,800 grant is given to the South Roxana Fire Department for radios.

The South Roxana firemen early this year requested that money for new radios be considered in the township's new revenue sharing budget and the board indicated that request would be considered when the budget was prepared.

Several persons at Monday night's meeting indicated that if a grant is to be given the South Roxana firemen, the township should ask the Mitchell and Hartford departments if they needed anything.

While the revenue sharing budget has not been completed, a public hearing has been called for Monday, March 6, to discuss possible uses for the township's revenue sharing funds and it was indicated representatives of all three fire departments will attend the meeting to make their needs known.

Chouteau Supervisor Walter "Dick" Sparks responded to questions about proposed sanitary sewers for Chouteau, Nameoki and Venice townships and told the audience the Environmental Protection Agency had assured he and other officials Friday that a $12.8 million grant from the EPA will be kept available, as long as the project continues at its present pace.

He said the recent refusal of the Illinois Supreme Court to consider a suit attempting to halt the funding for the sewers allows the county to proceed with preparing and selling $5 million worth of general obligation bonds for the local share of the construction cost. The Madison County Board will be asked March 13 to approve ordinances authorizing the bond sales and a contract for construction can then be signed.

Low bidders for the construction, G. H. Steensberg Construction Co. and S. M. Wilson Construction Co., have indicated they will honor their bid of $13,384,300 submitted in September 1976, despite inflation which has increased the costs for labor and material, Sparks stated.

Construction is expected to begin shortly after the contract is signed, he noted.

In other business, the board opened four bids for a photocopy machine needed in the township office, and awarded a $2,380 contract to A. B. Dick Co., the lowest bidder. The machine was delivered Tuesday to the town hall.

The trustees also heard an objection from a woman who said the county has ignored her repeated requests to have trash and debris in the Brooks Addition cleaned up.

Several persons in the audience also objected to the release of some township records to this newspaper for a recent series of articles. It was explained that the records are public and could not be kept from the press.

Lucco wants coal allocation authority

The chairman of the Illinois Energy Resources Commission, State Rep. Joe E. Lucco (D-Edwardsville), this week called for future legislation by the Illinois General Assembly to authorize the governor to allocate coal to priority users.

Lucco said, "I am pleased at the apparent coal strike settlement, but we have to address ourselves to emergency procedures for the future. Illinois is one of 21 states that have no legislative authority to allocate coal distribution. We lack the commission staff to draft legislation to cover future coal emergencies."

Lucco said the coal strike has shown that Illinois is currently more fortunate in its energy supplies than some neighboring states "because it has a good power exchange system serving utilities within the state — and because it has a good mixture of available fuel: oil, coal, nuclear and oil in addition to coal."

"However," he said, "if the national situation had become worse, we could have expected federal intervention, diverting Illinois' energy supplies to more hard-hit states."

"This would have hurt us here in Illinois — making it all the more imperative that we have a program to get coal to critical areas within the state."

Lucco added that citizens continue to practice stringent energy conservation measures for the time "needed for the legislatively-approved coal miners' contract to be formally approved by the full union membership and until coal deliveries can be made to replenish stocks."

International costumes, songs, music at supper

The International ladies culture-sharing organization at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville will hold a pot luck supper at Eden United Church of Christ in Edwardsville Saturday at 6:30 p.m. The church is located at 801 Second St.

The ladies' society is a group of women within the International Singing Program (ISP). The ISP is made up of over 100 families within the community surrounding SIUE who act as a hospitality committee for foreign students coming to the university for the first time.

Southern Illinois, publicity coordinator for the ladies organization, said participants are encouraged to take dishes of food representative of their respective countries to the supper. That also includes American foods, she said.

Students, friends, children and neighbors are invited to attend the event, Mrs. Sabour added.

Workman files injury suit

Frederick D. Norton has filed a suit in Madison County Circuit Court against S. M. Wilson & Co., Inc., 6014 Cleveland Blvd., and Gateway Erectors division of Inco-Gateway Corp., to seek compensation for injuries he alleges he suffered Feb. 26.

The suit contends Norton was employed in the construction of an addition to Alton Memorial Hospital when he slipped on ice and debris and fell, injuring himself.

The suit seeks a "just and equitable sum which will reasonably compensate him for his injuries and his costs of suit."

Personal computers to be topic

A seminar on "Minicomputers as Appliances" will be held March 11 at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville. The seminar, co-sponsored by the Business Constituent Society of the SIUE Alumni Association and the Center for Management, will begin at 9 a.m. and continue until 4 p.m. in Room 3307 of Classroom Building Two.

According to the sponsors, the status and projections of computer hardware which can lead to them becoming personal and commonplace will be explored.

Also to be stressed is the role of software and application imagination, considered to be the brake on computer evolution.

"Current uses for small business applications, personal record keeping and computation, direct device control, education and entertainment will be considered. Demonstrations of several of the topics will be available," a seminar spokesman said.

Registration fee for members of the Alumni Association is $25. The fee for non-members is $30. A catered luncheon is included. Checks are being made payable to the SIUE Alumni Association and mailed before March 3 to the Alumni House, Box 31, Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, 62026.

MITER PRESENTATION of Metropolitan Theodosius. The official head of the patriarch of the Orthodox Church in America is shown being presented in Madison last week by Mike Hammond (right) of the Nativity of the Virgin Mary Eastern Orthodox Church.

FIRST PLACE AWARDS. Four Coolidge Junior High School Speech students won first place awards in a Fine Arts Speech contest at Bethalto. From left are Susan Shantz, Ellen Range, Dynette Shrader and Todd Goodrich. The students were accompanied by Mrs. Shirley Stole, their speech teacher. The students presented monologues, readings, poetry and duet acting.

University staff's buying power slip-sliding away?

Major institutional spokesmen at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville are expressing optimism that Gov. James Thompson's proposed budget for higher education will establish a trend toward reversing what they see as the "downward compensation spiral" of the past several years for public university employees.

Gov. Thompson announced in February that in his budget message to the General Assembly on March 1, he would recommend pay increases for public universities as proposed by the Illinois Board of Higher Education (IBHE)—eight percent for faculty and administrative staff and 10 percent for lower paid civil service employees.

The IBHE proposal is expected to offset projected inflationary increases next year July 1978-June 1979 and provide two percent to reverse declining salaries in Illinois public universities as compared to similar institutions in other states.

SIUE President Kenneth A. Shaw said, "The salary increases are not as much as our employees should get, but it's probably all we can expect in one year."

"The governor and Board of Higher Education have shown their sensitivity to our needs by the raises they have proposed. Perhaps we can better appreciate what they have done when we realize that each one percent raise means a $6 million increase in the state budget. There truly is a limit to what can be accomplished in a given year."

Expressing hope for the future, Pres. Shaw said, "Obviously, much more needs to be done. And we're hoping the type of increase proposed this year will continue until the salaries of our people are competitive."

The president added, "Better public understanding of our situation is needed. At least Gov. Thompson acknowledged the plight of our employees with his recommendations."

Dr. Shaw pointed to recent studies by the American Association of University Professors (AAUP) and the Faculty Organization for Collective Bargaining (FOCB), as well as the IBHE, which he said illustrate the purchasing power of public university employees is slipping in comparison with other employee groups.

A report by the SIUE Chapter of the AAUP compares increases in the Consumer Price Index for the St. Louis metropolitan area with the average salary increases for faculty at SIUE over the past six years.

"The average loss in purchasing power for SIUE faculty now appears certain to be between 17.9 percent and 18.4 percent for the period from June 1972 to June 1978," the report states.

"As a result of the devastating losses in purchasing power by faculty over the last six years, a salary increase now must be significantly greater than the cost-of-living increase just for the faculty to stay even," said Tom Jacobelli, president of the AUP chapter at SIUE.

Tom Baldwin, president of the FOCB at SIUE, emphasized that in addition to the fact that monthly salaries are "no longer competitive," summer employment opportunities in Illinois institutions are declining every year.

"The net result is that most of us have had a drastic decrease in real earning power over the last six years. Some persons have lost as much as 30 percent in their purchasing power," Baldwin said.

In November, the IBHE released a study of faculty compensation in Illinois in relation to higher education, making comparisons with consumer price increases, nonagricultural salaries and wages, and the ranking of Illinois universities among groups of similar institutions in other states.

The IBHE analysis shows that beginning in 1972, the rate of growth for faculty salaries in Illinois fell beneath the growth rates in all three areas studied: nonagricultural salaries and wages, consumer price inflation, and similar institutions in other states.

The IBHE also noted that higher education institutions' civil service employees in many cases are paid less than employees of similar classifications in other areas of state government.

According to a recent SIUE Board of Trustees study comparing university civil service salaries and wages with those paid by state code departments to individuals in equivalent classifications, civil employees receive 16 percent higher pay than civil service employees at SIUE and 36 percent higher pay than civil service employees at SIUE at Carbondale.

In a 30-state report of appropriations for higher education, published Oct. 25 in the Chronicle of Higher Education, Illinois ranked 40th in the percent of increase of appropriations from 1973-76 to 1977-78.

The state ranked 31st in 1977-78 appropriations for higher education and only 42nd in 1977-78 appropriations per $1,000 of personal income in the state.

In all three categories, Illinois ranked below the average for the nation.

Although Illinois has fallen behind other states, studies indicate the problem of keeping up with inflation is plaguing higher education nationwide.

D. Kent Halstead of the National Institute for Education recently noted that since 1971, salaries paid to faculty members and other professional employees in higher education have increased at an average rate of 4.8 percent a year, compared with an average yearly inflation rate of 8.7 percent, as measured by the Department of Labor's price index.

Patrolling in the 1800 block of Grand Avenue at 6:00 p.m. Tuesday, officers were stopped by Linda Howard, 1835 Grand Ave., who said a man was attempting to get into the house through the rear door.

While police and the woman were talking, a man came from the rear of the house and started arguing with Mrs. Howard, who signed a complaint against Robert Householder, 401 Kirkpatrick Homes, charging him with disorderly conduct.

Householder was taken to police headquarters, but allegedly began screaming and striking the officers with his fists when told he had to go inside the jail if he could not make bond.

Officers were forced to subdue the man and he was charged with battery.

University at Edwardsville. Profits are used to benefit the Lovejoy Library at SOU.

This year's show includes a wide variety of antique furniture, china, quilts, sterling silver, paper items, primitives, paintings, and all manner of collectibles.

Shirley Stinson, executive secretary of the Friends of Lovejoy Library, says new members of this year's show include a dealer specializing in antique and rare art pottery and a dealer who features Linow's china and is bringing complete dinner services of Haviland china.

Another dealer specializes in pocket tobacco tins.

$100,000 suit

Roger Hill has filed a three-count lawsuit seeking $100,000 in each count from Granite City Steel division of National Steel Corp., Thomas Byrne and Sachs Electric Co.

The suit alleges that on July 26, 1977, Hill was a ironworker for William R. Montgomery and Associates Co. and was climbing on a ladder on a Granite City Steel roof under contract with the steel company when the ladder slipped and Hill fell to the ground and was injured.

Byrnes was the supervisor of construction for the steel company when the accident occurred, according to the suit.

Byrnes contends that Sachs Electric was subcontracted for work on the roof and placed electric conduit across the beam on the top of the roof. The hooks attached to the ladder, which Byrnes was supported failed to hold, because of the conduit, causing the ladder to slip, Hill alleges.

March gardeners finding all plants still dormant

By CHERRY HOLL

Area gardeners believe: After a long, cold, snowy winter, gardeners are anxious to be outdoors working with plants in the soil.

Early March 1978 finds all plants completely dormant and the season is somewhat behind normal. However, a few days of abnormally warm weather would not put everything back on schedule.

Fruit gardeners can get to work first. The tasks for the month are:

- Prune any and all fruit trees.
- Usually the entire month is utilized for pruning. Begin with the young trees first, and finish with the older trees.
- Apples and pears should be pruned before frost. Branches should be pruned on a cool day when protective clothing feels comfortable.
- Pick up and burn all prunings. This sanitation practice will give better insect and disease control.
- After the frost has left the ground, fruit trees should receive 1/2 to 1/3 pound of commercial fertilizer per year at age of tree. Branches may be cut from 1 to 2 pounds of fertilizer per 100 feet of row. Don't fertilize strawberries unless you know they need it.
- On grapes to receive and plant nursery stock as it arrives from the nursery.
- The grape and thornless blackberries in the trellis before bush seed. This will prevent bud damage.
- Vegetable gardeners will have plenty to do if it rains up (and even if it doesn't). March tasks are:
- Start tomato and pepper plants for your early plantings. This can be indoors or in a hot bed or greenhouse.
- Make sure you have seeds and onion sets on hand to plant as the springing should include cabbage, kohlrabi, lettuce, mustard, onion, peas, potato, radish, squash, and turnip.
- Treat for soil insects where root crops will be grown. Use a mixture of 20 percent diazinon E to cover 1,000 square feet of soil surface, and either water or rototill in.

Fertilize the garden as the soil is being prepared. It's too late to get soil test results for the early garden, so use previous experience and plant as you see conditions.

For asparagus, 1 to 2 pounds of 12-12-12 per 100 square feet is a satisfactory shot gun amount.

— Clean asparagus and rhubarb plantings of logs and weeds. Apply early fertilizer, manure, compost, or all three, for improved yields.

— New plantings of asparagus and rhubarb should be made as soon as soil can be properly worked.

Several of the above suggestions refer to proper soil conditions. This means soil that will crumble when plowed or spaded, or that will fall apart after exposure to together in your hand.

If it makes a mud ball in your hand or it sticks to the shovel, hoe or fork, it's too wet.

Working with wet soils destroys soil texture, causing cloddeness, restricts root growth and causes hard hounding. Wait a few days and try again.

Big Red the best in game that will benefit young athletes here

By VALERIE EYDEN
Press-Record Staff Writer

It was a night of big games, a fun-time for all. But don't think the action under the backboards wasn't painfully demanding on occasion.

The Officer Friendly benefit basketball game Tuesday evening in the Granite City Memorial Gymnasium ended up as predicted by certain Madison and Venice police officers.

The Big Red All-Stars of the St. Louis football Cardinals defeated the Granite City Police-Firemen All-Stars by a score of 56-41.

The local star-studded cage squad earlier squeaked through to narrow victories over the neighboring cities' police forces, in contests billed as "warmups" to the benefit game, leading up to the pessimistic predictions.

The score was slightly lopsided, but it could have been worse, in view of the visiting athletes' size, weight, coordination and physical condition. Tallies were obliterated by a malfunctioning scoreboard on two for three occasions and, before the contest ended, it was in doubt whether several minutes were added to the fourth quarter, or a few minutes were lost in the second.

Either way, Officer Friendly (Fred Hoffman) said the benefit game to help the Officer Friendly Athletic Fund to aid local youth was "a tremendous success."

The 2,700-plus people packing the gym, the largest crowd to see an Officer Friendly game, and their enthusiastic response to the antics of the players—both on and off the court—bolstered his conclusion.

In the statistical race, All-Pro cornerback Roger Werhli racked up 20 points to outscore all players.

Other points for the Big Red team were ledgered by wide receiver Mel Greig, 13, cornerback Lee Nelson, nine, running back Wayne Morris, six, quarterback Steve Pisarkiewicz, four, and linebackers Tim Kearney and Steve Nels, two each.

Defensive end Ron Yankowski and, safety Mike Semshuk failed to score, but each was effective under the backboards in gathering rebounds.

For the home team, policemen John Apperson and Rich Schaband led the scoring six points each.

Four points each were tallied by police officers Fred Hoffman and Jerry Duncan and firemen Charles Bernaux, Ed Hagmann, and Greg Becker.

Police officers Don Knight, three, and Steve Willard, three, and Steve Willard, two each, completed the scoring. Failing to score were Dave Rosenberg, Roger Hayes, Ray Romine and Ken Druke.

Larry Lape and Les Friesse were the usually patient referees and Bill Miles was the official scorer.

The halftime show also proved a success with the flashing blare and silver uniforms of North High's award-winning pom pom squad—the Steel City Bell—and North High and rifle teams performing a production number to the music of the North High Pep Band under the direction of Robert D. Todoroff.

Eyes then were riveted to the top of Memorial Gymnasium, where Harry Monti, a widely known magician and escape artist, was hosted by several police officers.

Suspended upside-down, Monti escaped from the confines of an old-fashioned straight-jacket into which he had been securely strapped by Roger Werhli and Mike Semshuk.

Monti also performed several tricks with a series of "magician's thumbs" together and then tossed the steel rings at him. Monti caught them over one arm.

In pre-game ceremonies, the audience was welcomed by Mayor Paul Schuler and Police Chief Ronald J. Vener.

Mayor Schuler remarked on "the large number of youngsters who have been helped in all kinds of ways" through the Officer Friendly game in the past six years.

He recalled donating the first trophy to the initial game, prior to becoming mayor, and commended favorably about the support for the Officer Friendly project shown through the large attendance.

As usual, many youngsters at the game were partisan supporters of the Big Red team and their rivalries were obvious when Chief Vener commented, "I think we are going to take them tonight. What do you kids think?"

Sixth grade students Lisa Willard of Parkview School and Robbie Shelton of Northwood School were presented trophies by Officer Friendly as winners of a poster contest for elementary pageants published Tuesday night's game.

Gene Baker, coach of South High's two-time state champion soccer team, was introduced and, in turn, presented his players, noting that many "are very important to the future of the Granite City soccer program."

Players introduced were Jon Throck, David Goldschmidt, Fred Schuler, John Kretschmer, Gary Phelps, Greg Frost, Phil Belanger, Mike Munster, David Fernandez, Jeff Timmes, Steve Spencer and Mark Gold.

John Brooks, assistant coach of the Warrior wrestlers, presented Sam Perkins, second place finisher in the 138 pound class at the Illinois High School state championship tournament last weekend.

Hasty, third-place finisher in the 145-pound division.

North wrestling coach Walt Throck introduced Kevin Whelan, whose 79-0 winning streak was broken at the state wrestling meet, where he was a 112-pound winner in the 112-pound division. Whelan has an overall record of 144 wins and five losses.

Quarterback Steve Pisarkiewicz, a graduate of McCluer High School, St. Louis, vividly recalled Granite City high school wrestlers.

"They used to break the bus when the Granite City team left but that was before my time, of course," the football Cardinal commented.

Bill Scammon, Cardinal equipment manager and former long-time coach at Ferguson, also recalled the greatness of former South tennis champion John Vanhook.

Immediately after the basketball game, the Big Red players spent more than an hour signing autographs for the children plus a scattering of adults.

Most of the Big Red players then joined the police officers, firemen, their wives and friends for a social hour and buffet lunch at the Knights of Columbus Hall.

Hockey meeting Monday night.

The Granite City Amateur Hockey Association will hold an open board meeting Monday, March 6, at the Wilson Park Ice Rink in Granite City at 7:30 p.m.

The purpose of the meeting is to elect two new board members. The association would like all parents of players in the league to attend the meeting.

Fortified with three weight division winners, Coach Larry Krutner will lead his young Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville wrestling squad to Cedar Falls, Iowa, for the NCAA Division II national tournament tomorrow and Saturday, March 24.

Improving on their last year's sixth-place finish will prove to be difficult, as the Cougars lost three all-Americans from that squad: Jerry Washington, reigning 190-pound champion, did not return to claim his last year of eligibility.

Dave Byrne, who finished third at 167 pounds, graduated and junior Terry Morrison, a two-time all-American who was sixth last year at 126 pounds, is "red-shirting" this season in preparation for a 1979 comeback.

Lewis ends season as SIUE's top scorer

Senior Lewis, 22, from Lincoln, Mo., led SIUE's 1977-78 men's basketball team with 20.3 points per game, 10.3 rebounds and 2.1 assists.

Lewis, who played both guard and forward for Coach Jim Sullivan's Cougar squad, ended out his running mate, Neil Poshien, by less than a point.

He finished with an 18.2 points per game average and Poshien closed out the season at a 17.3 points per game average in the five home field trials he played in the NCAA Division II nationally.

Both Lewis and Poshien were marked men during the season as defenders continued to contract their attention on them. The attention paid both on each field held them in many per game field goals.

Lewis, who shot 44.4 percent (100-225) and Poshien, who shot 42.9 percent (120-280).

The Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville women's basketball team closed out its regular season on a losing note at Chicago during the season's final game.

The victory upset the "Blue Demons" 64-52, while the Cougars of Coach Jack Stark led to 52-48.

Norma Jones gave SIUE about its only true bright spot in the game: the Cougar freshman pulled down 17 rebounds.

The Cougars, however, were not it from the floor as the Demons hit on nearly 30 percent of their shots.

The Cougars, meanwhile, were losing on only 25 of 80 tries.

In fact, DePaul never gave SIUE's offense a chance. The Cougars shot 44.4 percent (44-100) and Poshien, who shot 42.9 percent (120-280).

Facing the winners was Debbie Deming, who shot 44.4 percent (44-100) and Poshien, who shot 42.9 percent (120-280).

Lakeview wins sportsmanship cheerleaders 2nd

The Lakeview Christian Academy Patriots traveled to Lincoln, Mo., to compete for the second year "all-came home" with the sportsmanship trophy in the Southern Conference of Illinois Christian Schools Tournament.

Competitively, the Patriots weren't as lucky. They lost to eventual champion Christian Academy in the first round, 56-34.

The Lakeview cheerleaders lost the second place trophy in competition with other conference schools' cheerleaders.

Members of the conference are Marion Christian Academy, Benton Christian School, Mt. Vernon Christian Academy, Marion Christian School, and Cahokia in addition to Lakeview.

The Cougars also, however, have three returning all-Americans: Coach Matt Hadden, 177 pounds, and Dave Morrison, 162 pounds, placed third and fifth, respectively. David Robinson has come out of retirement, after placing second at 134 two years ago.

If they are to improve their 1977-78 finish, the Cougars will have to rely heavily on their underclassmen. And the young Cougars have certainly done a job this season.

At 118, freshman Tom Reed sports a record of 27-4 and has won at several prestigious tournaments, such as the Southwest Missouri Invitational and the Illinois Invitational, where he was named the outstanding wrestler.

At 126 pounds, the Cougars have Tim Ervin, a freshman who is a former Kentucky state champion. With a record of 17-13, Ervin has improved with victories over the likes of Randy Butler, a three-time NCAA champion from Tennessee.

Chadman and Dave Paul, a Division I runner-up from Oklahoma State.

Tim Anderson, a 150-pound sophomore, has a record of 20-4 and has not lost to a Division II opponent. Norm Mitchell, a first-year senior in the Division II sport, will qualify for the Division II tournament.

All things considered, there are six Cougars with about equal chances for the national title. The Cougars hope that perhaps some with good fortune, they will bring home the first-place trophy.

These wrestlers who finish first or second in the Division II sport will qualify for the Division II tournament.

Scholarship applications to be sought

A special meeting of the Granite City Scholarship Foundation was held at Granite City High School South on Tuesday night to discuss scholarships to be awarded at the recognition assemblies of Granite City North and South.

W. W. "Bill" Bright, president of the Foundation, announced the following as chairmen of committees: Screening committee chairman, Norman Garrett; financial committee chairman, Omar Rook; application committee chairman, Frank Peugh; presentation committee chairman, Omar Rook; and nominating committee chairman, Charles King.

This year's scholarships will be in the amount of $600 each and will be awarded on the basis of financial need, scholastic ability and the purpose of pursuing a college education. Last year, 24 scholarships of $600 were awarded to the two high schools.

"In order for the Foundation to be able to award the scholarships, it is critical that funds be donated by industries, civic organizations and interested persons," Bright said.

"All contributions, whether they be for $5 or for a full scholarship or more, are most welcome."

"Anyone interested in contributing to the Scholarship Foundation may make checks payable to the Granite City Scholarship Foundation in care of Bob Spengler, treasurer, 808 Terrace Lane, Granite City 62040.

"Applications for these scholarships are currently being prepared and will be delivered to Granite City High School North and South on Friday, March 31.

"All interested graduating seniors who plan on attending college are encouraged to pick up a scholarship application from the high school and submit it no later than Sunday, April 30.

"Scholarship applications that are postmarked later than April 30, 1978, will not be considered by the screening committee."

"All applications must be sent to the chairman of the screening committee, Norman Garrett, in care of Granite City Steel, 20th and State Streets, Granite City 62040.

"The Granite City Scholarship Foundation is thankful to all persons and organizations who have contributed to the Foundation in the past, and we hope that they will be generous again this year."

VITAL BASKET ATTEMPT in the third quarter of the Officer Friendly benefit basketball game Tuesday night has Patrolman John Apperson, left, Fireman Ed Hagnauer, right, and Patrolman Rich Schardan gazing with disbelief as the ball rims the basket and the home team fails to add to its score while trailing 27-23. Apperson and Schardan scored six points each in the contest and Hagnauer tallied four.

BEEFY OPPOSITION Defensive end Ron Yankowski of the Big Red All-Stars, left, tangles with Fireman Ray Romine under the backboard. Despite Yankowski's superior size (250 pounds) and speed, the football Cardinal lost this round to Romine, who failed to score with the shot but gained the rebound.

SHARPSHOOTER RONIE WERBIE (23) shows basketball skill while valuing two points in the second quarter of the Officer Friendly benefit basketball game Tuesday evening in the Memorial Gymnasium. The Big Red all-pro football cornerback scored 20 points in the contest to lead both lineups. Linebacker Steve Smith (36) enhances his uniform with a bright yellow helmet, topped with a flashing red light, borrowed from a police officer's child. In the foreground is Patrolman Kenneth Crawford, with defensive end Ron Yankowski (78) watching the play.

ESCAPE ARTIST HARRY MONTI is hoisted up to the rafters of the Memorial Gymnasium by Granite City police officers in preparation for his escape from a tightly belted strait-jacket while suspended upside-down in mid-air. The well-known magician accomplished the feat in a few short moments to the amazement of onlookers, including Patrolman Roger Hayes (4), Patrolman John Apperson, facing camera at the left, Patrolman Tim Lyerta, holding rope, and Officer Friendly (Fred Hoffman) at the far right. Cardinal football safety Mike Sensibaugh and cornerback Roger Werbie strapped Monti inside the "escape proof" jacket.

$41,150 bid for Nameoki station

A high bid of $41,150 was submitted to the Granite City Council Tuesday night for purchase of the Nameoki fire station building at Nameoki Road and Adams Avenue.

The bid was submitted by the Gitchell Agency. Another bid of $33,000 was submitted by Fred McMilligan of 1800 Wellington Drive.

Both bids were referred to the council's Fire and Water Committee which is expected to make a recommendation in the council's next meeting Tuesday, March 7.

The City Council decided several weeks ago to call bids for sale of the building which is now used only for storage purposes. The building was vacated when the new fire station at Richmond Avenue and Johnson Road was occupied.

Council members also approved Tuesday night an ordinance embodying terms of a new working agreement between the city and the street department. The agreement was approved by the council in the Feb. 28 meeting.

The new agreement provides salary increases of 8 percent this year, six percent next year and 3.5 percent in the third year of the three-year pact.

It also provides a schedule of longevity pay, which is one of the primary changes in the new agreement.

On the gift table was an arrangement of mixed flowers and a large bridal bell and streamers.

Miss Holten received a corsage of daisies and blue carnations from the hostesses, and many gifts from her friends.

About 60 guests honored the bride-elect. Games provided the entertainment and prizes were awarded to those who excelled.

Seek higher earnings ceiling on circuit-breaker tax relief

Governor James R. Thompson has released details of his plan for expansion of circuit-breaker property tax relief for up to 35,000 additional elderly and disabled taxpayers next year.

The governor is proposing in his July 1978-June 1979 fiscal year budget that the start-up cost of qualifying for circuit-breaker tax relief be raised from $10,000 to $12,000 per year per household.

The increase would make another 35,000 elderly and disabled taxpayers eligible for tax relief beginning July 1, he said, adding, "This is a true property tax relief for those who need it the most."

"This is the second major expansion during this administration of a popular and effective means for providing real property tax relief."

Last year, the maximum circuit-breaker grant level was increased from $500 per year to $600.

To provide for the increased costs, the tax relief program requested for fiscal 1979-80 will be $300 million, Thompson said. The 1977-78 allocation was $250 million.

Presently, about 100,000 taxpayers are eligible for the tax relief program. Circuit-breaker checks average $200 each.

The ceiling increase for qualification would mean that 10 percent to 30 percent of Illinois taxpayers over the age of 65 would be eligible to participate in the circuit-breaker program, Thompson said.

In addition to the increase for next year, the governor announced he will seek a $75 million supplemental appropriation for 1977-78.

The fact that he would like to see the tax relief program expanded to three offices in this state is encouraging in getting the word on the circuit-breaker.

He commended the efforts of Lieutenant Governor Dave O'Hara, the Department of Aging and its director Josephine O'Hara, who is in a sense a champion, and Deputy Secretary of Revenue Director Robert W. Miller in getting prospective recipients know the circuit-breaker program.

"This year, we have done a good job of telling people that if they didn't make their application by then," he said, "the retroactive grant back to 1977 was going to end."

As a result of state intervention programs, he said, one-time jump in claims is expected, the governor said.

Proposal for water quality is outlined

Stronger water runoff curbs were advocated yesterday afternoon and last night as a key to improving the quality of streams and rivers in the county.

Keeping the rate of the incoming tank within affordable levels remains the major challenge.

The 200 Policy Steering Committee of the Southwestern Illinois Metropolitan and Regional Planning Commission conducted a two-part public hearing at the Electrical Workers Hall on Highway 107, Collinsville, to review a proposed water quality management plan for Madison, Ill., and St. Louis.

Purpose of the 200 water quality plan is to meet the city's water goals of Section 202 of the 1972 Federal Water Pollution Act Amendments, Public Law 92-50.

Policy leaders from the three-county area, with 500,000 people, provided technical staff assistance. Have been developing a local water quality management plan for the past two and a half years, funded by a grant from the United States Environmental Protection Agency.

Executive Section 200 requires:

1. Control of point-source pollutants—wastewater pollutants discharged from municipal sewage systems, etc.

2. Control of non-point-source pollutants—runoff from urban, suburban, rural, construction erosion, agriculture, etc.

3. Development of a management system to ensure implementation of and compliance with the plan.

4. Establishment of a continuing planning process.

5. Maximum use of public participation throughout the program.

A summary of the 200 plan recommendations include:

A. Reduce and regulate pollution generated from on-farm point source through permit systems and facilities planning.

B. Reduce and regulate pollution generated from on-farm point source through permit systems and facilities planning.

C. Reduce and regulate pollution generated from on-farm point source through permit systems and facilities planning.

D. Reduce and regulate pollution generated from on-farm point source through permit systems and facilities planning.

E. Reduce and regulate pollution generated from on-farm point source through permit systems and facilities planning.

F. Reduce and regulate pollution generated from on-farm point source through permit systems and facilities planning.

G. Reduce and regulate pollution generated from on-farm point source through permit systems and facilities planning.

8. Assist, coordinate with, and supplement the state water quality testing program. And, 9. Reevaluate water quality standards and proposed stream use classifications to reflect local conditions.

All of the technical recommendations are dependent on a management system being capable of the effective treatment and control of existing sources of pollution, and the prevention of future water quality problems.

The management functions and responsibilities that must be exercised by the management system are summarized in the following three categories:

1. Waste treatment and control programs.

2. Regulatory programs. And, 3. Planning and coordination.

A new governmental body is expected to be created to carry out these duties.

Following the public hearing, all comments received will be reviewed by the 200 local policy committee prior to plan adoption by the policy committee, scheduled for March 15, 1978.

The plan will then be submitted to Illinois Governor James Thompson for his review, acceptance and certification.

The 200 water quality management plan holds important implications for everyone. Will we have clean water in the future? SIMAP Executive Director Theodore H. Maxwell commented.

Local history in new GC high school course

New high school courses in Illinois and local history will be offered next year at both Granite City high schools, the Granite City Board of Education has decided.

The new courses will be offered as elective courses, primarily at the freshman level. Textbooks will be "The Heartland" by Robert M. Sutton and "Old Six Mile" by Granite City's George Engle.

It will be taught under the social studies departments of Granite City High School North and South as a pilot program. Owen E. Humphrey, the school district's curriculum coordination, and the district's social studies department heads, told the school board that the addition of courses in Illinois and local history, taught together as one unit, will eliminate one of the weaknesses pointed out by the 1975 North Central Evaluation Committee report.

The major concepts and topics of the course will include the early settlements and growth of communities throughout Illinois. It will include the agriculture and industrial growth of the state.

"Various topics will include early settlement and major

Indian wars, growth of education, slavery in Illinois, the Civil War and Illinois, rise of industry in Illinois, and the effects of both World Wars.

The settlement and growth of Granite City, plus government in Granite City will be covered. The background and functions of other governing bodies such as the Granite City Board of Education, and the Granite City Park Board will be covered. The importance of good community relations will be discussed, according to the outline presented to the school board.

The success of the course will be measured by the number of students who elect to take it at each high school, since it will be an elective course, Humphrey said.

Patrolling officers discovered a broken door window at Updike's Service Station, Hammond and Vance avenues, at 4:15 a.m. Tuesday, and found the station had been burglarized.

Charles Updike, owner-operator, said 20 batteries, valued at $700, and assorted tools, worth $300, were among the items known to be missing.

CHILD ABUSE PROGRAM. Members of the Metro-East Juvenile Officers Association (MEJOA) meet Monday at Charlie's Restaurant to discuss problems of child abuse. From left, Jane Ellen Poole, secretary of MEJOA and a member of the O'Fallon Police Department; Mrs. Mary Lynn, standing, main speaker, who is with the Protective-Emergency Services, Illinois Department of Children and Family Services; David V. Hoffman, president of MEJOA and juvenile officer of the St. Clair County Sheriff's Department; and Col. George Teltor, vice-president of MEJOA with the Granite City Police Department.

Pontoon accepts GC ambulance pact

The Pontoon Beach Village Board Tuesday night became the second organization to approve a new contract drafted by Granite City which will allow ambulance service to continue outside the city after Wednesday, March 15.

The village board authorized Village President Floyd David

Moss to sign the agreement, as presented by the city, and Moss signed it on the spot. The document assures that any bills for ambulance service to the village of the city is unable to collect will be paid by the village board. Venice was the first to sign the agreement, doing so Monday night.

March 15, federal and state grants paying the salaries of city ambulance personnel will expire and the city will be responsible for paying those salaries.

City Attorney Lance Callis has said it would be illegal for Granite City taxpayers to pay those salaries on ambulance runs outside of the city which are not reimbursed privately or by the government serving that area.

Moss pledged every legal effort will be made to collect the bills from individuals in the village before the board would be responsible.

In other business, the board studied three prices on electric typewriters for the police department and decided to purchase an Adler for $365, the lowest of the three prices.

It also granted Ron Hastings, sanitary engineer for the Quiet Valley Lagoon, authority to purchase 1,200 pounds of sodium nitrate to help kill algae and alleviate odors from the lagoon.

The board reviewed actions taken at a Saturday recessed meeting during which a contract was awarded to G. H. Sternberg Construction Co. to install necessary storm sewers in the Lakeview Estates Subdivision for $47,800.

The work is needed to bring some streets up to state standards so motor fuel tax funds can be used to resurface them. Sternberg's bid was lower than one from Kamadulski Construction at $48,385 and one from C. D. Peters Construction at $57,865.

One other bid received was declared ineligible since the bidder did not enclose the required performance bond. A new 31-page police manual listing rules and regulations, dress requirements and other standards for village police, which was passed at the special meeting, also was discussed.

VACUUM CLEANER TAKEN
A $150 vacuum cleaner with attachments was stolen from a bedroom closet at the home of Kathy Collard, 2504 Madison Ave., between 6 and 8 p.m. Wednesday. Entry was gained by forcing open the south bedroom window.

Home health aides enabling aged to remain independent

By TOMMYE WALTER
There comes a period in life when the grandmothers of the family can no longer cope with housekeeping, and senior action must be taken.

Some families solve the problem by using the services of the nearest nursing home, while others move her in with them. In either instance, her home has been irreparably broken. The services of a new type of paraprofessional are being trained by educational institutions, including Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, to help maintain homes under such circumstances.

The paraprofessionals, or homemaker-home health aides, are growing in number throughout the country.

According to Rosemary Lutz, home economist in special programs at SIUE, homemaker-home health aides are developing in number under the auspices of many agencies as a helping profession. Although homemaker programs originated primarily as a service to children, they have gradually extended help to other groups.

Among them are aging, blind, mentally retarded and physically handicapped children and adults, convalescents, the chronically ill and the mentally disturbed.

Mrs. Lutz said. Homemakers allow the aging to remain in familiar home surroundings, thereby avoiding unnecessary placement in hospitals or other institutions, she said.

"It gives them the opportunity to hold their homes together longer and to be independent," Mrs. Lutz said.

The services of a homemaker provide favorable home climates for convalescents, allowing them to return home from hospitals or other institutions without unnecessary delay.

The services also enable children to remain at home when the usual homemaker is incapacitated by illness or when death, desertion or other reasons deprive them of her assistance," Mrs. Lutz said. The homemaker-home health care aide program at SIUE has been training paraprofessionals for two years. Another session will be offered at the university beginning March 20.

Classes will be held Tuesdays through Thursdays of each week from 9 a.m. until 1:30 p.m. in Room 210 of the John S. Roodman Building.

Deadline for registration is March 15. No tuition is charged for the program, Prof. Lutz said.

The program requires 120 hours of participation, including 40 hours in the classroom, 24 hours of skills development under the supervision of a registered nurse and economist, 20 hours of practicum, and 10 hours of observation at a senior citizen retirement center or shelter care home with other aides.

Persons interested in enrolling in the program may contact Mrs. Lutz at 682-2400 or 277-6263, Mary Engler at Family Services and Visiting Nurses in Alton at 682-2320, or Jim Miller in the regional office of Children and Family Services, East St. Louis, 675-9390.

To appeal $125,000 verdict

The Granite City Council Tuesday night authorized the appeal of a Circuit Court jury verdict awarding $125,000 damages to a Granite City woman who alleged she suffered permanent injuries as the result of a fall she says was caused by a break in a downtown sidewalk.

The award was made to Mrs. Mary Davis, 580 Waterman Ave., who alleged she suffered a back injury in the fall which occurred June 1, 1975, on an Edison Avenue sidewalk in front of the First Granite City National Bank.

The woman testified she underwent surgery for removal of two discs from her spine, resulting in the disabling injury. Irvin State Jr., assistant city attorney, told council members Tuesday night that he could follow the usual procedure of asking a new trial or appealing the verdict directly to the Appellate Court at Mount Vernon. The council approved a motion by Alderman Gerald Farnley to appeal the verdict.

Matthew 9:10... But when he saw the multitude, he was moved with compassion on them, because they fainted, and were scattered abroad, as sheep having no shepherd.

Do you wonder what Jesus saw when he looked upon the multitudes? You understand that whatever he saw, it moved him to compassion. It stirred his spirit and caused his great heart to yearn for their deliverance.

The scripture simply states that the people fainted and were as sheep without a shepherd. They had no shepherd to lead them. They struggled to solve their own problems, and failed. And failure caused fainting, or despair. Everyone has problems, but you're really on bottom when you give up.

Jesus says, "Come unto me, all ye that labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest."

If you believe in Him, you may receive from Him. Why not believe? Today!

In Loving Memory of DESSIE G. MCAMISH
March 3, 1977

She bid no one a last farewell, not even a goodbye. She was gone before we knew it, and only God knows why. They say time heals all sorrows, and help us to forget, but time so far has only proved how much we miss her.

God gave us strength to face it. But what it meant to lose her no one will ever know. Our hearts ache with sadness. Our eyes shed many tears. God knows how much we miss her.

A loved one gone to rest,
Those who think of you today
Are the ones who loved you best.
What we would give to see you smile.
Today sit with us and talk awhile.
The blow was sudden the shock
was severe.
To part with one we loved so
dear.

We often sit and think of you
Things we used to say and do.
We wonder why you had to die
Without a chance to say

Music on Schools Week

"Music is Basic" will be the theme of Music in Our Schools Week which will be observed by Granite City Public Schools beginning Monday, March 6, and continuing through March 12.

The observance will emphasize the importance of music as a basic school subject, reinforcing other educational disciplines. All levels of the music department will be involved.

On Wednesday and Thursday there will be performances at Sixth High School patroned after the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra's Children's Concert.

The performances will include the South and North High School bands, string students and members of the Elementary Chorus from both the Marquette and Marshall centers. In addition there will be performances by Madrigal groups from South and North high schools.

To foster participation in as many areas as possible, poster contests were held in each elementary school for children in levels five and six. Winners from each school have their posters displayed in various places of business around Granite City.

Child abuse on increase

Physicians were granted authority to retain a child in protective custody when the Department of Children and Family Services suspected abuse.

Perhaps the most sweeping change in the law was the granting of legal immunity to all who report such incidents to the Department. Previously, only certain professionals were granted this protection.

Any person, institution, or agency reporting suspected abuse or neglect under the law is presumed to be acting in good faith and is immune from any legal action, civil or criminal, that a parent or other person could conceivably initiate.

Continued personal lobbying for a renewed Midway Airport with a potential of 20,000 jobs by the Illinois Department of Transportation.

Col. George Terrell, vice-president of the Metro-East Juvenile Officers Association, introduced Granite City, Charles J. Veizer who gave an official welcome.

The Granite City Police Department was official host to the group at the meeting held in Charles J. Veizer's home.

David V. Hoffman, president of the group and juvenile officer for the St. Clair County Sheriff's Department, reported that the juvenile officers information file will be the topic of the next meeting.

"Our office at Maryville has been the site of more cases of child abuse in a year in a four-county area."

"More and more cases are involving the other child in school. Our agency frequently can help the family if notified about problems early enough. A simple thing can be the one last pressure on the parent that causes the abuse," Mrs. Lynn said.

New budget—jobs, no tax hike; 1-270 work

Governor James R. Thompson unveiled an $11.25 billion budget Wednesday for fiscal year 1979, starting July 1, 1979, and said that the economic heart of the budget is an employment to stimulate the economic health of Illinois.

In his budget address to a joint session of the Illinois General Assembly, the governor said the budget is balanced for the second year in a row and contains no new tax increases.

The FY '79 budget represents a 4.1 percent increase over 1978 appropriations. It recommends a state spending level of $9.95 billion—$2.25 billion less than the amount appropriated.

The budget, Thompson said, would allow the state to spend less than it receives in General Funds revenues and would provide a cash balance of $1.1 billion to be added to general reserves of $85 million at the end of FY '78 on June 30.

"We are still the only major state to go without a tax increase since 1969," Thompson told the legislators. "And with your help, we will be proud to keep that record for another year."

"Up and down the line," from agency to agency and from first dollar to last, the heart of this budget is employment and the economic health it brings," Thompson said.

He said that some of the specific job initiatives that will be pursued by FY '79 include:

- Continued personal lobbying for a renewed Midway Airport with a potential of 20,000 jobs by the Illinois Department of Transportation.
- Creation of 1,300 new full-time jobs through increased Illinois participation in foreign trade shows and missions.
- $2.5 million in Manpower programs to place older citizens in unsubsidized jobs and community service work.
- Construction of an Inter-225 extension, which will create employment in the Madison-St. Clair counties area during 1979—2,200 jobs in the construction and about 4,800 jobs in the Illinois economy over the life of the project.
- 329 new full-time jobs with the Illinois Youth Adult Conservation Corps, as well as more than 1,000 seasonal jobs under the Department of Conservation.
- 4,800 funded public service employment jobs, plus 2,300 in the youth program under the Governor's Office of Manpower and Human Development.

—An increased level of participation in the Minority Business Enterprise program by small and minority businesses in the state's economy.

For the second year in a row, Thompson said, the largest budget increase will go for education — and for the first time — the state will fully fund all state-mandated programs.

"That increase of $182 million is nearly 30 percent higher than last year's $125 million increase, and brings the level of total education spending to $2.2 billion," the governor said.

Thompson said the increase for education — $182 million for elementary and secondary schools and $40 million for higher education — represents a per-student increase of eight percent, well ahead of an expected inflation rate of five to six percent.

The $2.2 billion transportation budget, Thompson said, contains a nearly $1.4 billion road program, one of the largest in the nation, included in the $1.4 billion is $64.7 million in new projects.

In fiscal 1979 and 1978, Illinois will receive $1.25 for every $1 it contributes to federal highway funds, a sharp turnaround from the negative road fund returns of the last several years — as well as a marked contrast to continued federal discrimination in other areas," he said.

The governor also said the circuit-breaker tax relief program for elderly and handicapped persons will be expanded under the new budget to raise the eligibility ceiling from $10,000 to $12,000 a year.

Thompson said that in addition he is recommending a strong capital budget to insure continued stability in the private construction industry. Included in the capital program will be $13 million to begin work on a new state office building of Chicago and $12.1 million for the Food for Century III program at the University of Illinois and at Southern Illinois University.

The governor also asked the legislature for support in removing the sales tax on new machinery and equipment for manufacturing facilities in Illinois — the only Midwestern state that still has such a tax.

Thompson announced that the budget provided for transferring the responsibility for investigating public assistance fraud from the Department of Public Aid to the Department of Law Enforcement.

"We can and should have more help for those who deserve it but we want to help for those who don't," he said.

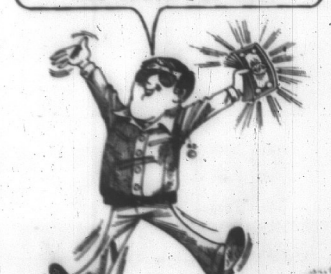

Other budget changes included:

- An increase of 30 percent for social services, including adult day care in the Department on Aging.
- Placement of 1,000 children for whom the Department of Children and Family Services has responsibility in private agencies for monitoring.
- Fully funding the county fair grant program for the first time in several years.
- Increasing the appropriation for the Illinois Commerce Commission to improve research and legal investigation by the commission staff.
- More funds for increased consumer protection by the Department of Insurance.
- Providing 10 new inspectors and 75 new auditors in the Departments of Revenue and Law Enforcement and the State Control Commission to cut down on commercial sales tax fraud and abuse.

'Roots' being traced by many in area—hobby can take a lifetime

Each family has the necessary tools for launching a genealogy search, according to Stanley Kimball, SIUE professor of historical studies. All it takes is the family Bible and a couple of relatives with a "gift of gab," he said Monday.

After information in the Bible is utilized and relatives are exhausted, the going gets more complicated. "You've got to be as clever as a granddaddy fox. You must pick up the trail wherever you find it and follow it wherever it leads," Kimball advises people interested in learning more about their ancestry.

The history teacher currently is teaching a course which deals with tracing the family history back to its origins. "Classes meet one day a week on a workshop format and center on 'show-and-tell' and problem-solving. Kimball provides the professional guidance."

"You never know where you are going to find information," he said. He believes that tracing one's roots is a lifetime hobby, a task that can never really end. "About the time you get 16 great-great-grandparents accounted for, you immediately have 32 great-great-great-grandparents to worry about," Kimball said. He paused for those words to take effect and then added, "There is no way in the world for anyone to ever finish." No matter what hobby or avocation a person has, the history professor feels that it can be successfully linked with hunting ancestors.

"Travel, photography, coin and stamp collecting, heraldry, map buffs, pen pals and military enthusiasts can relate to it," Kimball said.

For example, camera buffs can photograph the church where their grandparents were married, and military enthusiasts can visit the battlefield where his or her ancestors fought.

The first thing Kimball advises his students is to go home and ransack the premises. "Every item in the home that is in any way related to the family history, including the family Bible, old letters, passports, school records, memoros, journals, diaries, old family records and deeds, should be placed on the kitchen table," he said.

Then the students have to transfer all the bits and pieces of data from the material on the table to "pedigree charts" and family group sheets. They are asked to complete as many group sheets as possible.

The second task involves contacting family relatives and institutions in the immediate vicinity for additional data. After these sources have been exhausted, the search is extended to county courthouses for immigration records and other vital statistics.

Then the student is compelled to expand his or her search to national sources, which might include records from the National Archives, federal military records, and homelending records. Other sources could include passenger manifests from old ships.

The next step is usually Europe. "The search usually slows down here," Kimball said. The student begins writing to places in Europe or other points of embarkation.

"Sources may include parishes in Germany, courts in France or military records in Ireland."

Some of Kimball's students are corresponding with foreign lands in their ancestral research.

Dorothy Sherkman of West Frankfort has traced her way back to Lithuania. "It is slow going," she said. "I have one line back five generations but hardly anything on the rest," she added. Sherkman must take all lines back.

Larry Wood, Edwardsville, is tracing his wife's roots rather than his own. Among the best collections of information he has-run across so far are two diaries of her great-grandfather which chronicle the years spent away from his wife as a surveyor of highways in the west at the turn of the century.

Bradley Leaser of New Canton wrote to the county courthouse in Decatur and has received the death records of one of his relatives. "Your best friend will be the court clerk. He is very, very nice to them," Sherkman advises his class.

Sherry Moody, East St. Louis, will probably run into problems securing information about her early family, according to Kimball. "Black genealogy is extremely difficult because of the lack of records," he said. Miss Moody's family migrated from Macon, Miss.

The East St. Louis student remains optimistic about her search. After all, Alex Haley was able to find his way back to Africa, she notes. Haley is the author of the best-selling book, "Roots."

Kimball said that genealogists have been engaged for many years, long before Haley began his ancestral search. Kimball, "Black genealogy is the public's interest."

"Haley made a splendid contribution to the searching of ancestry and I hope it doesn't turn out to be a bad piece of work. He should be aware of their ancestry and should pass it on to their children," Kimball is convinced.

Interest in ancestry has been keen at SIUE. Kimball conducted a genealogy class for geriatric patients at Alton State Hospital earlier this year. "It helped them with their problems of reality orientation," he said.

The Genealogy Program at SIUE will sponsor a one-day workshop for senior citizens in April, and offer this spring an evening class in genealogy will be offered by the university.

Area conference topic—solving world hunger in midst of plenty

A conference in this area will attempt to solve the riddle of "world hunger in the midst of plenty."

The third annual Greater St. Louis World Food Conference planned for March 13-14 at the J. C. Penney Building at the University of Missouri-St. Louis.

"This year's program will focus on the persistent problem of world hunger at a time when record crop yields and declining farm income have created other difficulties in many food-exporting countries, including the U.S.," said Wendell McKinney, assistant dean for international programs at the University of Missouri-Columbia College of Agriculture.

Extension programs at UM-SL and the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign are cooperating in sponsoring the program along with area churches and civic groups.

The program will also address "the ability of the world market system to cope with the world hunger situation," McKinney said.

A keynote panel session will feature problems and possible solutions to the imbalance of world food (debates). The panel includes James P. Grant, president of the Overseas Development Council in Washington, the Hon. Everett K. Brown of Westminster Presbyterian Church in St. Louis and Charles B. Baker, agricultural economics professor at the University of Illinois.

Closing address of the conference will be presented by Carlos J. Orrego, coordinator of private trade agreements, U.S. Department of Agriculture. He will discuss "coping with increased grain reserves at home and starvation around the world."

Harold Bremeyer, UMC agricultural economist, and Boris Abbas, food policy adviser.

Genealogical talk tonight

Tonight's 7:30 meeting of the St. Clair County Genealogical Society will feature Lillian Ann Hubbell, who will speak on "Genealogical Research at the St. Louis Public Library." Miss Hubbell retired in 1977 after 20 years with the library, having spent the last five years as genealogy specialist.

Currently, she is revising genealogical materials and local histories in the St. Louis Library. This work, late by state, the enormous holdings of the library in those areas.

Miss Hubbell speaks before numerous groups concerning library research, the Loyolists, the settling of Mississippi and Louisiana, the Quakers and other topics of genealogical interest. The meeting will be held at Room 5200 Belleville Township High School East.

River Fest leasing plans being studied

A lease arrangement to continue the Mississippi River Festival is being studied. Representatives of four independent promoters in the music and entertainment business met Monday with the Ad Hoc Mississippi River Festival Committee at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville to exchange information concerning the possibility of leasing the university's facilities for the summer festival series.

Dr. Ralph W. Ruffner, senior vice-president for planning and review at SIUE and chairman of the MRF committee, said the committee received unsolicited expressions of interest from the outside promoters.

President Kenneth A. Shaw formally announced establishment of the ad hoc study group in a report to the SIUE Board of Trustees on Feb. 9.

The SIUE president's initial charge to the committee was to develop recommendations pertinent to the question, "What is the best way for the university to organize itself in order to plan and implement a summer 1978 MRF family and youth entertainment program?"

He also asked the committee to focus on the possibility of contracting with an independent promoter as an option to the "in-house" approach to programming that has been used by the MRF in the past.

Representatives of two of the promoters met with the committee Monday in individual sessions of one hour to one and a half hours. They were Kenneth Lipsitz, representing Feyline of Denver, Colo., and John Gourley and Kim Krekel, representing Regga of St. Louis.

Two other promoters—Irving Zuckerman, representing Contemporary Productions of St. Louis, and Army Grant, representing Jam Productions of Chicago—requested a joint session with the committee.

Dr. Ruffner said areas of mutual interest were explored. Additional meetings with the promoters, or with others who express an interest in the Festival, may be scheduled in the near future.

The ad hoc committee is scheduled to make a progress report to the president on Friday.

Chris Fahlman, manager of the Blossom Music Center, Cuyahoga Falls, Ohio, who was retained by Pres. Shaw last fall as a professional consultant to provide an evaluation of the MRF management and program, is on the campus this week to assist the committee.

Dr. Ruffner said.

Dr. Shaw announced in October the steps the university would be taking to evaluate the MRF and to make recommendations for the future. The announcement was made after the university received final financial reports for the 1977 MRF season which were said to indicate the Festival lost $117,467 and had a net accumulated deficit of $171,631 from the 1974 season.

In 1977, the ninth year of operations for the MRF, 96,919 persons attended 42 events during the nine-week summer series. Included were 26 performances in the fine arts series of dance, theater, symphony and films, as well as nine folk-rock programs and seven family programs.

Bank presents history cassettes to schools

A cassette series entitled "Cornerstones of Southern Illinois" has been presented to each community school by First Granite City National Bank.

Cornerstones of Southern Illinois comprises six 30-minute cassettes containing a total of 130 historical programs related to the local region and told in story form.

The entire series was written by Southern Illinois' historian and author, Grover Brinkman.

Each program is approximately three minutes in length featuring the people, communities, historical events and little known facts about Southern Illinois. The foundation for the series was laid in the 1930's during the days of the depression. Under the auspices of the Works Project Administration, the Illinois Writers Project sent a large school of young journalists into the field to trace down elusive bits of news, nostalgia and folk tales relating to the region of Southern Illinois, bank officials said.

The young writers researched official courthouse records and old newspaper accounts. They knocked on doors and recorded the legends and old-time tales of the old timers. And they produced a wealth of material — stories worth the retelling whether or not history buffs completely agree on their authenticity. This is the material upon which Brinkman based the series. "Cornerstones of Southern Illinois" is a spoken-word series.

Sufficient complete cassette series packages were obtained to provide one complete set in each of the 29 public schools of Granite City, Madison and Venice as well as the five community parochial schools.

It is anticipated the stories will be used by teachers, one or two stories at a time, as a warm-up for classes in state history. In addition, many of the stories are sufficiently intriguing as to motivate short, day-long driving trips to nearby areas of historical interest. It was noted.

Assigned to train in communications

Selected for instruction in the communications electronics field at Keesler AFB, Miss., after completing basic training at Lackland AFB, Tex., is Airman Ramona L. Welborn, daughter of Mrs. Mildred E. Humphrey of 1019 Fourth St., Venice.

During the six weeks at Lackland, the airman studied the Air Force mission, organization and customs and received special instruction in human relations. Completion of this training earned the individual credits towards an associate in applied science degree through the Community College of the Air Force.

Airman Welborn is a 1972 graduate of Venice High School.

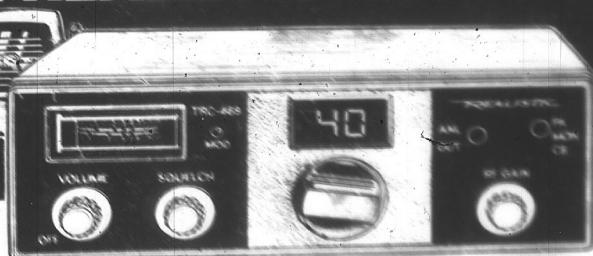

PRESENTATION TO SCHOOLS. Madeline Williams, president First Granite City National Bank, left, presents sets of historical cassettes to community schools. School representatives accepting the cassettes are, from left, John Polchell, superintendent, Madison School District; St. Barbara, principal; St. Mary's and St. Mark School, Frank Evans, president Madison School Board; St. Mary's principal; St. Joseph's School; St. Mary's principal; St. Margaret Mary School; St. Margaret Mary principal; St. Elizabeth School.

Robert Vickers, superintendent, Venice School District; and Warren, representing Sacred Heart School, and St. J. Davis, superintendent, Granite City School District. In the background is a portion of an art exhibit by Granite City High School South currently on display at the local bank. The cassette series entitled "Cornerstones of Southern Illinois" comprises 130 stories of early Southern Illinois history as written by Southern Illinois historian and author, Grover Brinkman.

How does a heroin addict get started?

(Second in a series of articles by the Granite City Pulse.)
When a youngster decides to experiment with marijuana, or other popular drugs of abuse, it is usually the result of hearing about the supposed "benefits" of use. And this holds true for the heroin starter.

Most case studies indicate users often get their start at a party, or other group gathering, with an addict who is already thoroughly "hooked" offering and urging the non-user to just try it one time.
"It can't hurt you if you only skin-pop," are famous last words. And it is always easier to talk yourself into trying heroin if you've already been experimenting with other drugs.

Skin-popping is by no means safe. This is injecting the heroin only under the skin, as opposed to "mainlining." The latter is the injection of the drug directly into a vein.
The skin-popper soon finds, as his body tolerance builds, that he does not get enough satisfaction from his "fix."

Soon, he'll be maintaining with the veterans.
And he will realize too late that he, like the fellow who talked him into it, is hooked.
We'll cover more of the details of heroin later on in the series. Now, let's take a look at what makes a person allow himself to begin at all.
Every case history has its individual aspects, but they do form a pattern.
Although a young person may be outwardly level headed, an inner feeling of inadequacy is often uncovered too late, after the use of the drug has started.
This feeling frequently is traced to pressures to achieve better grades, applied both at school and at home.
Not being popular among peers, and the inability to maintain good and satisfying relations with parents and other adults are other factors.
High on the list is a lack of assigned responsibility in the home, thus leaving the youngster with a feeling of being left out and giving too much time to spend as he pleases.
Evidently, some parents still aren't convinced that their children do not benefit from having no home responsibilities, and being left to "do their own thing."

The answer to drug abuse points directly to strong parental guidance and influence, but this can only be accomplished if the parents have the facts about drug abuse.

A group of dancers from the theater and dance department at SIUE will perform during the last three selections on the program. Choreography for the dancers is under the direction of Audrey Tallent.

The evening's performance will be concluded with "There's No Business Like Show Business" by Irving Berlin, from "Annie Get Your Gun"; "You're Never Fully Dressed Without a Smile" by Charmin and Strouse, from "Annie"; and "Everything's Coming Up Roses" by Stone and Sondheim, from "Gypsy."

To ask warrant for youth

Granite City police were to apply today for a felony warrant against a 19-year-old youth who allegedly was found in possession of 47 LSD pills Sunday afternoon.

Granite City officers said they saw three youths in a station wagon in the 2800 block of Madison Avenue at 4:40 p.m. Sunday and they were passing around a cigarette which appeared to be marijuana.

Officers stopped the car and noted a strong smell of marijuana smoke in the car. In the ashtray, three partially smoked marijuana cigarettes were found wrapped in aluminum foil, officers said. The three youths were searched and five glass vials containing 47 pills were found in the 19-year-old's possession, it was alleged. Initial chemical tests indicated the pills were LSD, an hallucinogenic drug.

Although no charges were filed against the youth, Circuit Judge William Beatty telephoned police and ordered the youth be released on $200 cash bond and officers complied.

The other two youths in the station wagon also were released on bond. Darren S. McGovern, 17, of 518 E. 27th St., was released on a $100 bond on a charge of possession of cannabis and Gregory S. Jones, 17, of 2327 Hodges Ave., posted $50 bond on a charge of possessing an altered driver's license.

College trustees devote much time

Illinois Community College board of trustees members devote more than 13,000 hours of volunteer time each year, according to a study done by Dr. Robert L. Poorman, president of Lincoln Land Community College in Springfield.

Poorman surveyed all Illinois community colleges to see how often their boards of trustees meet and how long their meetings last.

Most community college boards meet once a month for an average time of two to three hours, Poorman found. His study showed that 33 colleges hold monthly board meetings and six colleges hold board sessions every two weeks.

Belleville Area College's board meets regularly on the third Thursday of each month. A study session, also open to the public, is scheduled for the second Wednesday.

In addition to the regular meetings, RAC trustees meet with standing committees during the month to keep abreast of the problems and progress of the college.

RAC President William R. Keel estimates that his board gives approximately 45 man-hours each month to the college, aside from the related reading and study the trustees do away from the campus.

David Viar, executive director of the Illinois Community College Trustees Association, agrees with Dr. Poorman that more than 13,000 hours of volunteer time was given to the community college system last year by the community members who make up the boards of trustees in the state.

Three hours were spent in board meetings and are only a part of the hours of study, preparation and conferences with college staff and interested citizens to which members devote hundreds of hours of additional time during the course of a year, he points out.

In releasing the information on board meetings, Viar urged Illinoisans who wish to serve their communities to consider candidacy for membership on their local college board of trustees.

"Citizen volunteers who keep their colleges in touch with the needs of their communities are the vital link that has given the community college system its excellence and strength in Illinois," Viar asserts.

Candidates for the Belleville Area College (District 322) board have until March 17 to file petitions to be on the ballot.

Three incumbents are running for reelection, and members are chosen from the district at large.

Incumbents are Meard J. Justin of Cahokia, John A. "Jack" Becker of Sparks and Edward F. O'Malley of Belleville.

Governor praises power conservation

Governor James R. Thompson is pleased with voluntary electricity conservation measures being taken in Illinois and is urging all citizens to redouble their efforts.

"The situation has become increasingly serious," Thompson said.

"Most Illinoisans still have warm homes, and ample electricity, and are still employed. But if we don't conserve electricity, that situation may change drastically."

The governor said he is particularly heartened by the way businesses have reduced non-essential display lighting.

"As I drove down Michigan Avenue in Chicago, most non-essential lighting, including the Wrigley Building, had been turned off," the governor said.

"I was pleased to see that the Sears Tower, the John Hancock Building and the Prudential Building all had cut back on their lighting."

"To many, the Wrigley Building's decorative lighting is a symbol of Chicago. I hope all Illinoisans will accept this as an example of the need to cut back electricity."

The governor also complimented commercial establishments for their efforts, including:

Many department stores for reducing their interior and exterior lighting to 50 percent.

A chain of stores for reducing escalator operation, eliminating night cleaning, and scheduling more prudent up-lights and down-lights.

Food stores for reducing lighting, instituting heat reclamation procedures, and reducing the number of compressors in operation.

A department store for turning off much of its interior lighting and using a skylight instead.

The Illinois Chamber of Commerce and the Illinois Retail Merchants Association have sent letters to all members outlining ways to conserve electricity, and the Illinois Manufacturers Association has voiced its support for the governor's plea for conservation.

New Medicare hospital insurance deductible

The Medicare hospital insurance deductible is now $114 for benefit periods beginning in 1978, John Nathan, Social Security district manager in East St. Louis, reports. This represents an increase of $20 over the $124 deductible effective during 1977.

The deductible is the amount people pay toward the cost of services covered by Medicare hospital insurance during the first 90 days of hospital care provided during a benefit period.

The increase will not affect people whose benefit periods began in 1977. Nathan added, but will apply to those who start a benefit period in 1978.

A benefit period is the way of measuring a person's use of services under Medicare hospital insurance.

A person's first benefit period starts when he or she enters a hospital after hospital insurance begins.

It ends when the person has been out of the hospital or other facility primarily providing skilled nursing or rehabilitation services for 60 days in a row.

There is no limit to the number of benefit periods a person can have.

The increase in the deductible also caused increases in the other insurance amounts people are responsible for under Medicare hospital insurance, Nathan said.

For the first through the 90th day of hospital care, the patient is now responsible for paying $36 a day, up from the $26 a day rate for 1977.

For each of the 91 "reserve" hospital days available to people with Medicare, the patient is now responsible for $72 a day.

For the first through the 100th day of care in a skilled nursing care facility available in a benefit period, the patient is responsible for paying $38, up from the $15.50 paid in 1977 benefit period.

The staff of the Social Security office is prepared to answer any questions people may have about Medicare and the new deductible. The office is located at 600 Missouri Ave., and the toll-free telephone number is 1-800-540-6800. It can be reached by dialing the operator.

2 youths charged

Two youths were arrested and charged with disorderly conduct at 2:04 a.m. Saturday after police were told that the occupants of a yellow car were shooting out street lights in the 2400 block of Lynch Avenue.

Officers said they sighted a yellow car turning from Lynch Avenue into Waterman, and as they approached saw what appeared to be the barrel of a rifle pointed out the window on the passenger side of the car.

Police stopped the car, and arrested Ronald A. Borowski, 18, of 212 Warsaw Lane, Mitchell, and John McDonald, 18, of 2213 Dawn Ave.

Officers allege they confiscated an air rifle and a package of pellets which they said they found in the car.

LITTLE PROGRESS has been made recently due to the bad weather on this split-level house at 2138 Hamilton Drive, which is under construction by the combined building trades classes of Granite City North and South High Schools. This is the third house to be built by the classes and the first to be a split-level. The two-level house has dimensions of 28 by 50 feet with an 11 by 13 foot foyer which connects to a double-car garage.

All exterior walls are being made with two by six inch studs to allow for added insulation. The exterior of the house will be finished by the end of this school year and the interior and finishing touches will be completed during the next school year. Larry King is the instructor for the classes.

North Band concert Monday

The third in a series of four seasonal concerts will be presented by the Granite City High School North Concert Band Monday, March 5, at 8 p.m. in the North Cafeteria.

The 101-member concert band, under the direction of Robert D. Todoroff, will make this third in the series of four concert appearances, prior to presenting a concert on March 8, during the Music in Our Schools Day concert presentation.

and to certify for students at the time. Arrangements for the concert are under the direction of the Granite City High School Band Parents Association. Harold Striker is president.

TELEVISION STOLEN Burglars broke into the South Cafeteria, 2885 State St., and stole a television set. It was reported at 11:35 a.m. Saturday. The front door was forced open to gain entry.
